

Nokia released the mapping software for Asha 501 phones

In order to boost sales and increase the attractiveness of cheap Asha 501 phones, Nokia has officially launched HERE Maps mapping software.

In order to boost sales and increase the attractiveness of cheap Asha 501 phones, Nokia has officially launched HERE Maps mapping software.

Currently, Nokia has released a beta version, but it is still equipped with attractive features such as navigation, navigation, and warning of traffic conditions in the supported area. This mapping software supports 196 countries around the world, including Vietnam.

Earlier in May, Finnish phone maker officially introduced the Asha 501. This is a popular phone with 3-inch multi-touch capacitive touch screen, Wi-Fi connection, no 3G, 1.200mAh battery, running on Asha platform improved from Symbian S40 platform and 3.2MP camera.

Especially, Asha 501 can replace microSIM without having to open the battery.

In terms of design, this product is inspired by the Lumia series, with a shell made of polycarbonate plastic.

You finished reading the article "Nokia released the mapping software for Asha 501 phones" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.
