What changes does Nova Launcher 7 bring?

After 8 months of development, Nova Launcher 7 is finally out on the stable channel. This much-awaited update brings many improvements to the beloved Nova Launcher, including new animations and visual styles, weather icons in the search bar, enhanced Nova search, swipe actions new down, etc.

While previous versions of Nova Launcher were based on the open source Launcher2, the latest version is based on the latest AOSP launcher code, offering refreshed animations and visual styles. The developers have also updated the code specifically for Nova.

As for the new features (via Android Police), you can now add a weather icon to the home screen search bar. Next, there's a new swipe-down gesture that you can assign to an app, Nova action, or app shortcut.

You can also reshape icons by theme and toggle forced reshape for each icon. In addition, it is also possible to change the corner radius of the widget. To do so, go to Nova Settings > Desktop > Widget corner radius .

The changes that apply to the Nova Launcher v7.0.45 update include:

- Visual refresh - Based on the latest AOSP launcher code and Nova specific code updated to match the latest animations and visualizations
- Weather icon on the search bar (Nova Settings > Search > Desktop Search Bar > Weather)
- Swipe down action on icons (requires Prime)
- Advanced Nova search
- Reshape icons by theme and switch reshape each icon
- Options for Android for Work apps in their own tab
- Customizable widget corner radius (Nova Settings > Desktop > Widget corner radius)

Nova Launcher v7.0.45 will launch on the stable channel in Google Play. A TeslaCoil employee confirmed that the stable update is currently only available to a small percentage of users. The update will gradually roll out to more users in the coming days. If you don't want to wait, you can download the APK file from Nova's website or APKMirror.
