

Online accounts on Instagram will have a green dot next to the avatar

Instagram is a Facebook social network so it is understandable that this application is updated with new features like the world's largest social networking site. And recently, the application has been updated with a new feature to help users know who is online.

Instagram is a Facebook social network so it is understandable that this application is updated with new features like the world's largest social networking site. And recently, the application has been updated with a new feature to help users know who is online. A green dot will appear in the lower left corner of the representative image of the accounts that are online and using the application.

You will see this blue dot in Instagram Direct or your friends list to identify which friends are online to chat.

Instagram said, this new feature will help users to chat with friends via Instagram Direct rather than using Messenger or WhatsApp as before.

However, users can only see this green dot for accounts that have been chatting with you or accounts that follow you. Users can also choose to disable this feature by manipulating the same way to turn off chat on Facebook Messenger.

See more:

1. Instagram Lite shortened version of Instagram for weakly configured machines already available on Google Play
2. How to post questions on Story Instagram
3. How to call Video Call on Instagram

4. How to hide other people's posts on Instagram

You finished reading the article "Online accounts on Instagram will have a green dot next to the avatar" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.
