Currently, online purchases are becoming more and more popular and popular. EBay or Alibaba names are always mentioned as the best online shopping addresses. But besides, in order to carry out the purchase and sale, it requires the participants to have a 'thick' battle experience. Here are some such experience.

1. Look for (Search for) the product you need.
2. In the search results, see which products do not allow a bid only to buy now (Buy it now). If the purchase price is too high then ignore it. Check (check) all auction listings that I feel good.
3. Checking each ad for a part of the seller who said it will ship all over the world, so that means shipping to Vietnam.
4. Check payment method. People who participate in auctions or purchases should ignore all prompts only accept payment by check or cash transfer. This is a payment method that is both unsafe and not feasible and should be taken care of by those who require direct payment via credit card. Currently Paypal has accepted Vietnam so this is the best method.

How Online Trading Works

5. Check the "identity" of the seller. For high value items (over 100 USD), you should only buy from "Power Sellers".
6. Should check in the description if they have a tool to calculate shipping prices to Vietnam. If not, write an email asking 'partner' about the item itself as payment, shipping and auction conditions only. When you have received the seller's reply with package price (shipping + handling), you can rest assured.
7. Determine the maximum price I want to pay for the item. Except for transportation and insurance, we get the highest price we participate in the auction. In case it is possible to pay import tax on the item, you must also count it.
8. When participating in the auction, you should consult the 'tips' of the other 'comrades' mentioned above to buy a good price.

One thing you should keep in mind is that you have a 'tendency' to ask for a 'partner' to write a gift item and lower the value of the item in the invoice to avoid import tax. However, with valuable items, we should not use this method because if the goods are lost or damaged on the way of transportation, the company will only compensate us with the value on the invoice only.
