

Oppo F3 Plus will be the first phone to own two previous cameras

Oppo is ready for the launch of the Oppo F3 Plus on March 23. The event will focus on the launch of two new phone lines, the Oppo F3 and Oppo F3 Plus, with the emphasis that the Oppo F3 Plus will own 2 Selfie cameras in front.

Oppo is ready for the launch of the Oppo F3 Plus on March 23. According to the latest Tweet of this phone company, the event will focus on the launch of two new phone lines, namely Oppo F3 and Oppo F3 Plus, with the emphasis that Oppo F3 Plus will own 2 Camera Selfie front.

The new era of dual selfie camera
Selfie Expert

The company's representative also emphasized the five main markets that Oppo aims to launch these two new product lines: Indonesia, India, Myanmar, Philippines and Vietnam. The price and features of Oppo F3 Plus will be different for each market.

Oppo also affirmed that this will be the first phone to own 2 16 Megapixel front-facing cameras for the main and 8 Megapixel cameras for secondary camera to support maximum selfie.

Sky Li - Vice President and CEO of Oppo International Mobile Business said: "Oppo's F3 product line will bring selfie technology to a new level, as well as create a new trend in the field. mobile phone area in dual-use Selfie Camera "

There have been rumors that the Oppo F3 Plus will have a 6-inch screen that supports Full HD 1080 x 1920, with a Snapdragon 653 chip with 4GB of RAM. Only owns a 16 Megapixel Camera in the back, using 4000mAh battery and weighs about 185 grams. However, in order to know the exact information about Oppo F3 Plus, we will have to wait for Oppo's event on March 23rd.

You finished reading the article "Oppo F3 Plus will be the first phone to own two previous cameras" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.
