Just last week, Microsoft brought users to Windows 10 Fall Creators Update for Windows Insiders on the Slow Ring channel for the first time. On Thursday, Redmond released the official ISO file for build 16232 of Windows 10 Fall Creators Update Insider Preview.

There are many new things in build 16232 if you haven't used any recent Insider Preview builds. Notable additional features include improved Fluent Design for the Action Center and Start Menu, improved reading experience on Microsoft Edge (as well as common performance improvements) and a number of new features for Cortana .

Microsoft also added a new My People experience that allows users to try it out by installing 16232 and the new Story Remix experience in Microsoft Photos. In addition, the company also upgraded the emoji set (along with many newly upgraded emoticons) and a virtual keyboard with many new features . Overall, this is a build worth a try.

By using ISO files, interested users can try out all the new features and enhancements included in Windows 10 Fall Creators Update. If you have joined Windows Insider, you can use the ISO file to install build 16232 on your device. Moreover, if you just want to try this build, you can try Fall Creators Update on a virtual machine.

Currently, Windows 10 build 16232 ISO file is available and allows Insiders users to download it at Microsoft's home page.
