

Please see the video experience of the folding screen tablet, maybe Xiaomi

After uploading the first real image of the Galaxy S10, Evan Blass, an expert in information leaks coming out, continues to share a short video about the folding screen tablet that is supposed to come from compassion. Xiaomi brand.

After uploading the first real image of the Galaxy S10, Evan Blass, an expert in information leaks coming out, continues to share a short video about the folding screen tablet that is supposed to come from compassion. Xiaomi brand.

This folding screen device is installed with a customized version of MIUI 10. Initially, users perform tasks on the device like on traditional tablets. After unlocking the device and opening the Google Maps application, the user folds the two sides of the tablet again. At this time, the tablet became as compact as a smartphone complete with curved sides on both sides.

Evan Blass said the authenticity of the device or the video has not been verified. However, Ishan Agarwal, who leaked some previous equipment, said he had also received a special email about the device.

While that's all the leaked news, with what we see in this video, this folding screen tablet is worth the wait.

See more:

1. Revealing the patent on Apple's folding screen iPhone, is "better" than Samsung
2. Folded screens in fictional films can be images of future smartphones
3. Invitation to admire the Galaxy F concept with a beautiful folding screen

You finished reading the article "Please see the video experience of the folding screen tablet, maybe Xiaomi" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.