Wood saws are an indispensable tool for carpenters, furniture makers .

The experience can not be ignored when choosing to buy wood saws

Here are some considerations you need to consider to be able to choose a woodworking machine that ensures good quality and price, effectively meet the requirements for use as well as purchase budget. suffered.

Choose a wood saw machine that best suits your needs

The first thing is that you need to determine your specific use purpose to choose the most suitable sawing machine, wood cutting machine:

1. Choose what type of wood saws : Wood saws have many different types such as sawing saws, chain saws, saws, sword saws . and each is dedicated to a different stage when working with wood. Therefore, please be careful about the type of wood, the stage needs to use saws to select the machine with the most appropriate function. If you need to perform many stages, you can refer to the multi-purpose chainsaw to avoid having to buy too many devices.
2. Choose wood saws for batteries, gasoline or electricity : Battery-powered wood saws often have a compact hand-held design, flexible operation and no entanglement but not too large capacity. Electric chain saws have a large capacity, are easy to use but are less flexible because they need to use wires connected to the power source. Gasoline chainsaws have a large capacity, independent of the power supply but fuel costs. Therefore, please be specific on the device usage environment to choose the most suitable product for you.
3. How to select a wood saw machine with specifications : Do not forget to base on your intended use such as how to manipulate what kind of wood, size of wood, whether to use the machine continuously or not. . to choose the type with the parameters of power, saw speed . most suitable. With machines for home use to serve personal interests, you won't need a machine with too much power. But if you use it in a carpentry workshop or work, you should prioritize machines with high capacity to shorten time and improve productivity.

Choose wood saws made from durable and safe materials

When buying wood saws, you also need to pay attention to the safety of the device to avoid unfortunate work accidents caused by poor quality products. Some things you should prioritize are:

1. Choose a machine made from good materials to ensure efficient sawing of wood as well as help the machine have a long life, more durable performance.
2. Choose a machine with design to ensure safety: Whether it is a table saw or a hand-held sawing machine, you also need to make sure that the device you choose to buy has good thermal insulation, insulation, anti-vibration, anti-slip effect. It is capable of automatically disconnecting when overloaded, overheating to ensure user safety and durability for the device.

Wood sawing machines have a complicated use but need to choose a machine with good design to ensure safety.

Choose wood saws from reputable brands

Reputable brand is always a factor to help ensure the best quality of saw machine products. Therefore, you should prioritize the selection of woodworking machines from well-known brands, which are highly appreciated for quality, technology and safety such as Makita, Bosch, Hyundai, Total, Htachi, Maktec, STIHL. , FEG, YATO, Black & Decker . to use.

Choose wood saws with reasonable prices

Another factor you should consider carefully is whether the price of the product is in line with your budget. To choose a quality woodworking machine that still ensures good prices, you always need to prioritize the need to use first, avoid choosing a machine with too strong capacity or too many functions that you probably won't. Make the most of it to avoid waste. However, you should not choose used woodworking products that are too degraded in quality or choose floating, unknown, and originating equipment to avoid the risks of failure, safe when using the device. Prices of common saws, milling machines and woodworking machines on the market today, you can refer to:

1. Sawing machine price: 1 - 14 million VND
