1. Eevee's evolution in Pokémon Go:

In fact, Eevee can evolve into 8 levels , including fire, electricity, water, grass, ice, spirituality, darkness and fairy. Depending on the evolutionary rocks as well as the different conditions that Eevee will evolve into different levels. Each level of evolution possesses its own unique attributes and strength that make its opponents "terrified".

But in Pokémon Go it can only evolve into Eevee's three forms:

1. Flareon : is Eevee's evolutionary form when coaches let it use Fire Stone. This form of Eevee looks special with his body and ears turning red, showing his ferocity.
2. Vaporeon (water system) : when we let Eevee use the Water Stone, it will evolve into a water system. With the characteristic of this system, Eevee's whole body is covered by a green color, with a body that is quite similar to a fish and has 4 legs.
3. Jolteon (lightning system) : Eevee's evolutionary form when we use Thunder Stone. Eevee's whole body will be covered by yellow.

In the story and the original Pokémon version will use morphological rocks, energy stones to evolve. But for Pokémon Go games, Eevee will evolve into one of the three types of Pokémon mentioned above randomly, depending on the preferences and abilities of each player so that Pokémon can evolve.

2. Trick to evolve Eevee in Pokémon Go:

Gamers recently handed each other the secret to help Eevee evolve as he wants, fixed without being random as before. We can choose the evolution of Eevee in 3 different systems: Vaporeon (water system), Jolteon (lightning system) and Flareon (fire system).

That is, before deciding to evolve Eevee to a new level, proceed to rename Eevee to get the type of Pokémon you want.

Specific evolutionary ways are as follows:

Sparky: evolution will produce Jolteon lightning system.

Rainer: upgrade to Pokémon Vaporeon water system.

Pyro: becomes a Flareon Fire-type Pokémon.

After changing the name to the type of Eevee you want to evolve, select the evolution process and you will see the result as one of the 3 evolved Pokémon Eevee types.
