Strategies in Free Fire

1. Priority of hiding options

Some locations often have many weapons, equipment will be the focus of many snipers. With these positions, players need to avoid collisions, mainly hiding options. Some positions such as Military Depot, Residential Area, Heaven Gate, etc. should limit confrontation.

We can choose locations such as Barracks, Airports that don't have too many houses or adjacent areas. Some new players will choose locations such as Big Port, Sea City, Power Plant.

The use of in-game vehicles is also a necessary option to avoid clashes with other enemies.

2. Dress in hot areas

The principle with the hot positions in the game is that you will not directly confront, but should choose ambush to lower the target. Gamers can choose the high positions such as on the hill or guard station to observe the situation. But also need to pay attention to snipers from low.

Some hearing drop positions are also places where you can take down other opponents when they pick up items in the hearing box. If you have defeated the opponent, you should carefully observe the surroundings and quickly get the items in the hearing box.

It is easy to identify the type of strategy most gamers use in Free Fire, or other survival shooting games that minimize the clashes to ensure their own lives. Next, players will use their ingenuity and sharpness to destroy other opponents.
