

Private chat features are available on Skype for Android

This new feature provides users with enhanced chat mode, keeping shared information private by encrypting all messages (text messages, images, audio or video).) sent or received.

Microsoft has added a private chat feature (Private Conversation) in the new version of Skype for Android 8.26.0.70. This new feature provides users with enhanced chat mode, keeping shared information private by encrypting all messages (text messages, images, audio or video).) sent or received.

Private Conversation can only be made for conversation between two people, cannot be done with group chat mode.

To make a private conversation, click on the + -> select New Private Conversation -> select the name of the person you want to make a private conversation -> a private chat window will appear.

An invitation to join the conversation will be sent to the recipient. This invitation is valid for up to 7 days, after which it will be automatically canceled if the recipient does not accept it.

There will be a lock icon next to the name of the contact in a private conversation. This conversation content will not appear in Android Notification.

See more:

1. Microsoft launched Skype 8.0, Skype Classic will cease operation after September 1, 2018
2. Tips should know if you're using Skype
3. How to upgrade Skype without participating in the Insider Program

You finished reading the article "Private chat features are available on Skype for Android" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.
