

Record screen with VLC Player software

VLC also has a function of recording a computer screen video. And if you do not know how to use this feature, the following article of Thuthuatphanmem.vn will guide you step by step how to record a computer screen video with VLC Player software.

Surely most of us are no stranger to VLC Player software because this is a music and video player software that is very popular on Windows. However, you probably do not know this software has another function that is to record video on a computer screen. And if you do not know how to use this feature, the following article of Thuthuatphanmem.vn will guide you step by step how to record a computer screen video with VLC Player software. Please follow along.

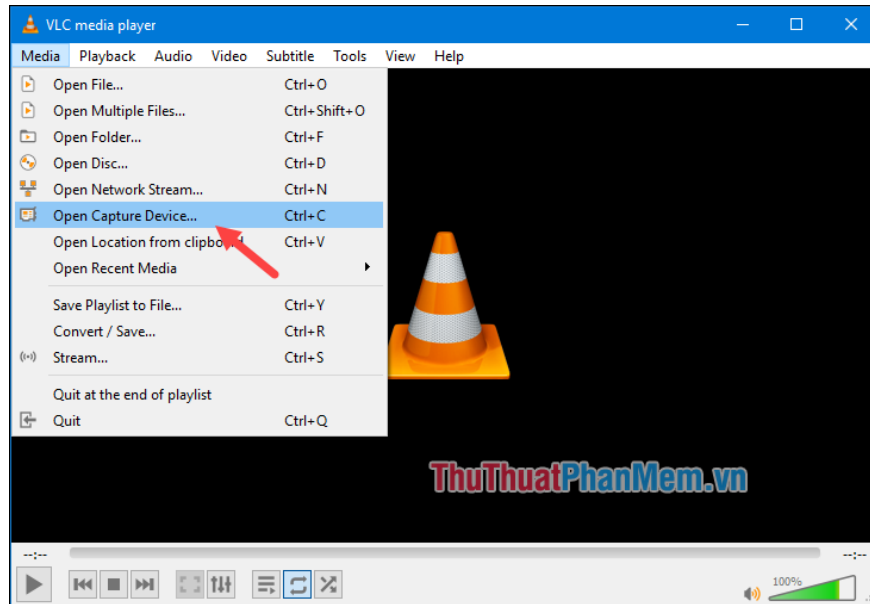

First of all, if your computer has not installed the VLC Player software, you can download it on the home page of the software with the following link:

<http://www.videolan.org/>

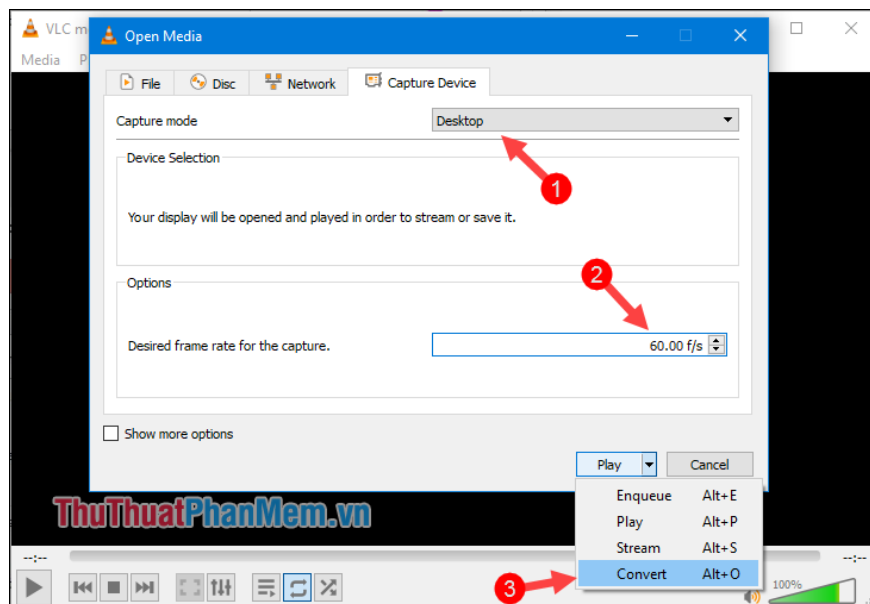

The installation steps are quite simple, all you need to do is Next. After installation is complete, run the VLC application and proceed to the screen recording steps.

Step 1: At the interface of VLC Player, open the screen recording function by selecting Media -> Open Capture Device .

Step 2 : In the new window you select Capture mode as Desktop in turn, Desired Frame Rate for the capture (enter the frame rate) you enter the value about 30 - 60fps. If your computer is weak, then enter a low value.

Next to the Play button, click the down arrow and choose Convert

Step 3 : Next in the new window you choose the video format is Video - H.264 + MP3 (MP4). Then select the Browse button below to select the folder to save the video and name the video.

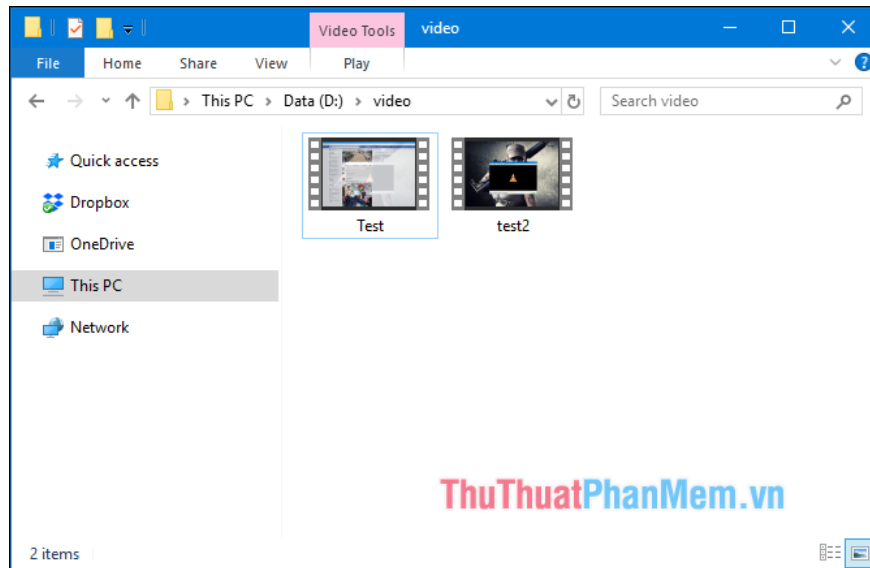

Finally, click Start to start recording the screen.

While recording you press the square button to stop recording, if you want to continue recording you press the triangle button.

Finally, you open the directory to save the video and see our results:

On Thuthuatphanmem.vn, I have shown you how to record video on your computer screen with VLC Player software with just a few simple steps. Thank you for watching this article, wish you success!

You finished reading the article "Record screen with VLC Player software" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.