

Revealing Lenovo's new 10-inch screen laptop

Recently, Lenovo has revealed a new 10-inch laptop on its website. Called E10-30, this laptop uses a 10-inch screen. Specifications of the machine seems to have been revealed by Lenovo.

Recently, Lenovo has revealed a new 10-inch laptop on its website. Called E10-30, this laptop uses a 10-inch screen. The specs of the device seem to have been revealed by Lenovo.

Accordingly, the machine will have many options for processor chips, from the speed model 2.17GHz to 2.42GHz with Turbo Boost automatic overclocking support. These chips are Bay Trail chips, with Intel Gen7 graphics chips or Intel HD graphics. Lenovo will also provide operating system options: Windows 7 or Windows 8.1.

10-inch screen of the machine is LED screen resolution of 1366 x 768. It has 4 GB RAM, and 2.5 inch HDD with optional 320GB or 500GB capacity. A pair of speakers and a microphone will also be integrated on this laptop. It has 2 USB 2.0 ports and 1 USB 3.0 port, VGA output port, 2 in 1 card slot to expand storage memory. The information on price and date on the shelf has not been announced by Lenovo.

You finished reading the article "Revealing Lenovo's new 10-inch screen laptop" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.