

Review: Billion Road - Experience the giant Japanese street

Combining familiar billionaire chess play with unique and funny 'innovations', Billion Road promises to be a fun game for you.

Developed by the famous game company BANDAI NAMCO Entertainment, Billion Road provides a great experience for players who love strategy games, want to enjoy the feeling of being a 'rich kid' in the legend. If you are looking for a cute and fun game but the gameplay is extremely simple, then welcome to the colorful world of Billion Road.

Funny flowers, colorful

BANDAI NAMCO Entertainment is partly thanks to the production of Japanese Anime-Chibi graphics. That's why Billion Road is also made up of fun, colorful cartoon manga graphics.

Objectively speaking, the game does not really have beautiful, meticulous strokes, the character details in Billion Road are only acceptable. In return, all animations are built quite lovely, fun. The Japanese city map of Billion Road is filled with cheerful colors for comfort and comfort.

This corner of the street where we met .

Characters in Billion Road are quite innocent, funny with colorful hair and costumes. Players can also change the hairstyle or clothes, shoes for the character of their choice. Even can change the facial expressions of the character such as fun, anger, shame, surprise. . quite lovely.

The map of Billion Road simulates the modern streets of beautiful Japan with traditional sushi restaurants, grocery stores, souvenir shops, . and even extremely worthwhile farming and breeding farms. to love. Players can immerse themselves in the colorful world, feel like they are walking around the real Japan.

Gentle sound, happy ears

Most Board games are not too invested in terms of sound and Billion Road is no exception. Music in the game is not too thorough, thorough but only at a good level. Judging objectively, the music of Billion Road is not too impressive but really pleasant.

Review Itta: Shooting is simple but not easy

Itta is a simple but challenging shooting game, accompanied by a beautiful graphical background that brings an interesting experience to the player.

Playing too many PK fighting games often gets hit by high frequencies from bass or treble, so with Billion Road, I feel the music in the game brings comfort. Soothing background music brings a sense of fun, relaxation, sound effects are also made in moderation, not too jarring. For those who are looking for a game with good music system, Billion Road is not appreciated, but for a simple entertainment game, Billion Road really designed good sound.

The enrichment experience is not difficult

The gameplay of Billion Road is very easy to get acquainted with, the gameplay mechanism is inspired by Monopoly, also known as the billionaire chess. However, instead of using a circular map with fictional locations like the billionaire flag, the Billion Road map is a mini version of Japanese streets. Billion Road is a simple entertainment game so it does not have a deep story. Players will play a role as a young investor, travel around Japan, meet rivals, buy and sell businesses and make as much money as possible.

In the beginning of the game, the player will be guided through 2 characters in the role of two game show hosts. They will choose the province / city you will be visiting and investing. Billion Road allows you to play with your friends and even play with machines.

The two hosts are hilarious, lovely

Players can also choose the virtual time of a match. Average virtual time will be 3 years or more (equivalent to more than 30 minutes), the longer the time, the greater the ability to invest in profits. As time goes by, some random events will occur to add interest to the game such as the New Year Event. These small events don't really affect the game much, they usually just give the player a random bonus.

Every time you visit a province, you will receive a Mission that is to move to the destination (usually a designated place or store). The dice corresponds to the number of moves received on the map. However, a big minus point is that the game does not have a general map for players to find the destination on either side or exactly where. With a game moving on the map but difficult to determine the direction to the destination, it is indeed offensive.

Each jump will fall to a cell containing its own attribute. Players will receive money if they land at the prize-spinning destination with a Plus sign and will be charged money if they miss the dice on the minus sign. With destinations such as landmarks, such as sushi restaurants in Ginza or Akihabara stores, players can choose to invest, buy real estate. Real estate will bring interest, players can receive interest after a period of time.

Investing in any type of business is a difficult problem

During the game, gamers will get items that bring convenience to themselves through the boxes containing Gift Box. Gift Box contains convenient cards such as: Dice Card that helps players move according to the number of optional steps, Summoner Card helps open up Summoned Beasts to support attack, defense, .

The interesting point of Billion Road is that you will not have to fight alone, but you can bring a bunch of summoned beasts, like it is like the Japanese gangster brother leading the students. Summoned Beasts can be obtained via Gift Box or Summoned Beast boxes on the map. Gamers can select up to three summoned beasts to follow. Each summoned beast has its own interesting attributes such as: Blueberry - the summoned beast that allows the bonus to increase, Magnetaze - the summoned beast, which allows you to steal an enemy's summoned beast, . There are more than 50 other summoned beasts. each, and each has a unique personality and an interesting set of unique skills waiting for you to discover.

Summoned beasts may look cute or . worth fighting

If the dice are mostly waiting on luck, the summoned beast is the key for the chance to win because you are given the right to choose the appropriate disciple to attack and defend in each round. This can be said to be the most important point in the strategy because using summoned beasts with the right attribute to make more money, attacking opponents or defending will bring victory faster.

Another interesting thing is that on the map of Billion Road, there are also ranked summoned beasts scattered everywhere. When moving on the map, if unfortunately 'my attention has struck her eyes' These summoned beasts will join your squad, follow you. That's why the trick for you guys to play this game is not to rush to the finish line, but you can take the path to the next path to pick up a favorite summoned beast.

The most important event occurring in Billion Road is the appearance of a monster named Nemesis, a monster that aggressively attacks the beautiful city and destroys all buildings on its way. Players will have the opportunity to destroy Nemesis through three rounds of play, before Nemesis goes crazy and begins to wreak havoc. Nemesis is quite fierce and will only be defeated when it receives a large amount of damage, meaning that players will have to join forces to save the city.

Feel the wrath of Nemesis

Of course, Billion Road possesses the same play as the billionaire, so the goal of victory is still to make as much money as possible. The destination of each map is simply a bonus, and sometimes a summoned beast gives the player additional rewards. If you reach the finish line then you don't have to worry about losing, but if you are too slow to get too far to your destination, you risk being cursed by a monster. It will keep following money, items, and monsters from you until you can find a way out of it.

Conclusion

Billion Road has a lot of potential to become a game that attracts players. The game has eye-catching graphics, fun, the music is also quite good. The game size is also quite good, only about 2500 MB, so the animation effects of the characters such as dice, moving on the map are also quite smooth, without lag. Another plus point is that Billion Road has a multi-player game mode, allowing gamers to invite friends to play with, shoulder to shoulder fighting with others.

Billion Road is just a light entertainment game, hard to be a blockbuster because the game does not have many modes, quite monotonous, the features in the game are not really impressive. Temporarily it is not confirmed whether the manufacturer has more features to attract more players but currently, if you want to search for a simple game, kill good time during the Tet holiday 2020 to 30 / 4, Billion Road is not a bad choice. Try downloading the game and experience the rich kid feeling, having a few hundred million yen in a single note with Billion Road.

You finished reading the article "Review: Billion Road - Experience the giant Japanese street" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.