Even picking up items is an action that needs to be thought out and carefully observed, because you won't know how many people are ambushing and ready to put you in sight. Refining your weapons into killing machines, increasing levels and skills, and collecting loads of loot to complete gear is extremely satisfying.

With new combat mechanics added to the game, this has completely changed the gameplay and rhythm of each battle. What is extremely clear when comparing the combat mechanics of the two parts is the speed, in part one you will have to learn each enemy's fighting style and punish them in between each attack.

In Nioh 2, the unique character design and youkai have been inherited and become a big 'plus' of the game. As for the human characters, Team Ninja has combined both the historical details in the books and the fanciful elements of the game and shows this clearly in the character's appearance, making every character look like a person. unique shape and extremely memorable.
