

Samsung confirmed will reveal Galaxy S9 next month

According to chief mobile officer at Samsung, their next high-end mobile phone will be revealed in February at Mobile World Congress.

According to chief mobile officer at Samsung, their next high-end mobile phone will be revealed in February at Mobile World Congress.

DJ Koh, head of mobile at Samsung confirmed with ZDNet at the CES technology event that the Galaxy S9, their next flagship smartphone, will be revealed at the upcoming MWC. Koh didn't say a specific date but MWC took place from January 26 to January 3, so we can guess at this time.

Galaxy S9 (and perhaps Galaxy S9 Plus ) will be S8 and S8 Plus successors, 2 smartphones launched at Samsung's event in New York in March last year.

Samsung fans no longer have to wait any longer

S8 and older brother S8 Plus are rated as phones with beautiful design, great camera. Both have enough power to make users forget about the disaster that exploded earlier Galaxy Note 7.

At this time, there is not much information about Galaxy S9 but according to some leaked images, it will be similar to the previous version, a little different is to transfer the fingerprint sensor behind the camera, instead of next to as present.

S9 and S9 Plus are not all that Samsung fans expect this year. Talking to ZDNet, Koh also said that they also plan to launch a folding phone in 2018. 'Fold' is not yet clear how it functions but Samsung has pursued curved screen smartphones for years.

See more:

1. Looking back at Samsung's 2017
2. Galaxy S9 may be the first flagship Android phone of 2018, but not necessarily the best
3. Leaked images Galaxy S9, Galaxy S9 +, fingerprint sensor under the camera

You finished reading the article "Samsung confirmed will reveal Galaxy S9 next month" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.