

Samsung revealed lots of interesting information about new devices

Discovered by PhoneArena, the new patents show the style of a phone with a curved screen that could be the successor of Galaxy Round, a smartwatch with a round screen design, a phone that can be connected. Suitable for tablets and even phones with a round Home button.

Samsung recently revealed quite a number of patents on the design of its new devices.

Discovered by PhoneArena, the new patents show the style of a phone with a curved screen that could be the successor of Galaxy Round , a smartwatch with a round screen design, a phone that can be connected. Suitable for tablets and even phones with a round Home button.

Curved phone screen

Clock

Phone paired tablets

Home button like Apple

The remaining patents also show a phone that looks like Samsung's existing low-end phones but has an elliptical Home button.

Smartphone with new home button

As usual, these patents do not mean that Samsung will actually make the same devices in the future but they once again show that Korean manufacturers are trying to make new devices and are not afraid to touch rival goods.

You finished reading the article "Samsung revealed lots of interesting information about new devices" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.