Meanwhile, a search engine to replace Google will be what people need, especially when most Internet users are too dependent on search engines like today.

BING SEARCH

Microsoft loyal users with names such as Internet Explorer or Windows Phone are certainly no stranger to Bing, the default search engine developed by Microsoft.

Not to mention the power, but Bing.com is considered one of the most beautiful looking website today, giving users the impression and inspiration right from the first visit. Bing also lets you search for images, videos, news, etc., similar to Google, even better when it comes to finding prominent trends for users.

However, due to low popularity, Bing search results are not really optimized for users in our country, but Bing does not have Vietnamese interface.

YAHOO! SEARCH

Back in more than a decade, Yahoo! Search in Vietnam is probably in the same position as Google today. Although it is 'lost', it is still a 'usable' search engine in cases where Google needs to be replaced. Recently, after the cooperation with Firefox, Yahoo! Search has replaced the Google giant to become the default tool on the Firefox browser, promising strong growth again in the near future.

Yahoo Search's interface contrasts with Bing's colorful interface.

In contrast to Bing, Yahoo! Search still keeps the interface extremely simple and traditional. Users can also search by image, video or shopping information, search results by topic, etc.

In addition to helping users experience a nostalgic sense of search, Yahoo has a monotonous interface, lacking in modernity that is hard to retain. Also search.yahoo.com domain sometimes makes it difficult to quickly search for a certain keyword.

CUP COCONUT

Given that 'Google of Vietnam', Coc Coc is a powerful search engine, the interface is simple and easy to use and is a worthy choice to replace Google. Since Coc Coc is an application developed for Vietnamese people, Coc Coc supports searching well for Vietnamese users.
