

Shivers of 'bloody eyes' to defend the horns of horned lizards

This horny lizard species when hit by the enemy in the same way, from the eyes of them will spit out the blood shot straight into the enemy's face and quickly escape.

This horny lizard species when hit by the enemy in the same way, from their eyes will spill blood into the enemy's face and quickly "escape".

There are many strange mysteries about animals, from the ability to "superhuman" camouflage to the possibilities of bizarre hunting. One of those species is horned lizards with the ability to spray blood from the eyes .