

Shock: Bus driver was fined for not collecting the ticket for the bird sitting on the window

A bus driver in India was shocked when the controller fined him for not collecting the ticket from a bird sitting on the window.

1. Choosing a photo that makes you feel the most annoying will reveal exactly who you are!
2. Scientific proof: Month of birth has an impact on human health and personality

A bus driver in India was shocked when the controller fined him for not collecting the ticket from a bird sitting on the window.

The incident happened when a 44-year-old unknown driver was driving a bus belonging to Tomil Nadu State Ellavadi.

He drove the bus to a checkpoint, the inspectors boarded the car to make sure that the passengers on the bus had paid the full fare.

The controllers then noticed a bird sitting on an open window and a drunken man about 45 years old was talking to him.

The controller asked the bus driver if he had collected the ticket from the bird.

When the bus driver said that he did not collect money from this bird, he was fined for letting the animals go to the car without collecting the fare.

By law, passengers with 30 or more animals must pay an additional fee.

The bus driver said that he still doesn't understand why he was fined so far.

You finished reading the article "Shock: Bus driver was fined for not collecting the ticket for the bird sitting on the window" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.
