

Solitary jaguar dared to plunge into the bait of wild dogs

While the wild dogs were tearing up the antelope, a male jaguar suddenly appeared, rushing to take away the other half of the prey and climb onto the roadside tree.

Although the number is much larger, wild dogs still cannot take advantage of that, and let the bandits lose their prey while eating.

1. Hungry tiger risked his life and plundered the crocodile's bait, did the bloody end happen?
2. Ferocious jaguar "to eat" the underwater assassin crocodile
3. Report the skull-spotted bites, winning the crocodile network as fast as lightning

The robbery of the jaguar bait before wild dogs was recorded by Patrick Mziyako, a tour guide in the Kwaggaspan lagoon near Skukuza city in Kruger National Park.

Patrick recounted, he saw 9 wild dogs separated an antelope from the herd and drove it towards the wide lagoon to kill the prey. While the wild dogs were tearing up the antelope, a male jaguar suddenly appeared, rushing to take away the other half of the prey and climb onto the roadside tree. Immediately, wild dogs chase the jaguar to get back their prey. Unfortunately, they still slowed down and stood looking at the spot to spoil their prey on the top of the tree.

You finished reading the article "Solitary jaguar dared to plunge into the bait of wild dogs" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.