

Sony Vaio E Series 14P recognizes gestures with a webcam

Users can use a number of actions such as surfing the hand to transfer photos, web pages, hands down to turn off music or turn your hands to increase or decrease the volume.

Users can use a number of actions such as surfing the hand to transfer photos, web pages, hands down to turn off music or turn your hands to increase or decrease the volume.

>>>Review Sony Vaio E 2011

Sony has just launched the Vaio E Series 14P laptop. This product is capable of operating continuously for 7 hours and supports gesture identification. Vaio E Series 14P thin 22.4mm. This model has 3 colors: white, black and pink.

Sony Vaio E Series 14P is capable of operating continuously for 7 hours.

Sony's new product is equipped with a 14-inch screen with a resolution of 1,366 x 768 pixels. Machine running Intel Core i3-2350M processor, 4GB DDR3 RAM along with AMD Radeon HD 7670M graphics card. The hard drive of the Vaio E Series 14P has a capacity of 500GB and a speed of 5,400 rpm. Machine with integrated DVD burner. Sony also integrates connections like Wi-Fi b / g / n, Bluetooth 4.0 + HS, two USB 3.0 ports, 2 USB 2.0 ports and HDMI for its products. In particular, a USB 3.0 port can be used to charge the phone even if the user has turned off the laptop.

The front screen of the Sony Vaio E Series 14P is equipped with a 1.3 Megapixel Exmor HD webcam. In addition to the function of making video calls, users can use this camera to issue gestures to certain applications.

For example, swipe left and right to switch between web pages and images in library or push down to stop music, slideshow, turn around to increase or decrease volume . However, this unique feature is only supported on Windows Media Player, Internet Explorer 9, PowerPoint and PowerDVD.

There is currently no information about the selling price of this product.

See more photos Sony Vaio E Series 14P:

This product comes in three colors: black, white and pink.

It is equipped with Intel Core i3-2350M chip, DDR3 4GB RAM and AMD Radeon HD 7670M graphics.

Users can charge the phone with a USB 3.0 port even when the laptop is turned off.

The hard drive of the product has a capacity of 500GB and a speed of 5,400 rpm.

The screen of the Vaio E Series 14P has a resolution of 1,366 x 768 pixels.

There is currently no information about the selling price of the product.

You finished reading the article "Sony Vaio E Series 14P recognizes gestures with a webcam" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.