

Sticker-style Facebook interface is about to be updated with many interesting improvements

Sticker or sticker is a cute feature that plays an important role in enhancing the user experience, attracting and retaining users on any messaging and chat platform.

Sticker or sticker is a cute feature that plays an important role in enhancing the user experience, attracting and retaining users on any messaging and chat platform. Don't confuse the sticker (sticker) with the emoticon (emoji). Emoticons can often operate in content (paragraphs, sentences) within a paragraph of text, while stickers tend to stand alone. Besides, the stickers are more and more diverse than emoticons, including animations (and text) - the options are often not included in "classic" emoticons. In short, emoticons are usually used only to describe your emotions, while stickers can contain more diverse messages, both in terms of thinking, action, and emotion. Besides, stickers are also becoming more and more popular than emoticons.

1. Facebook will test a cryptographic currency competing with the bank later this year

Back to the main problem. A large social networking platform and including an instant messaging application (Messenger) like Facebook, of course, cannot be absent from the sticker. In fact, extremely rich and interesting sticker store is also one of the factors that help Facebook enhance the user experience for its platform. Therefore, the fact that Mark Zuckerberg and his colleagues pay special attention to developing sticker is not difficult to understand. This social networking platform is currently planning to launch a new interface for Sticker UI. According to the first discovery by Jane Manchun Wong, Facebook stickers will be categorized into different emotional states.

1. Facebook issued a tougher policy with live stream activities, limiting potential violations

In addition, the company is also testing the ability to synchronize recently used stickers on many devices that share a Facebook account. Accordingly, this feature will allow to remember all stickers that have been used recently, so you will get the same exact results on 'history' using stickers on whatever device Come on. Previously, the ability to sync Facebook's sticker was very bad, users often had to spend time searching for favorite stickers every time they used Facebook in different devices.

1. Warning: Accessing the personal page of a comment about a scam can be robbed of Facebook nick

The above 2 features are currently in test mode and therefore will take some time before you can be experienced in the near future.
