

Summary of the hottest technology news of December 2

Operating Cortana on Windows 10, restoring contacts deleted in Gmail, 10 events caused the Internet to explode, revealing the white BlackBerry Classic, Candy Crush Saga officially landed in Windows Phone, Kaspersky Internet Security 2015 has a running version Mac OS X, the diseases of computer addicts, ... are the most interesting news of the week!

Operating Cortana on Windows 10, restoring deleted contacts in Gmail, 10 events that caused the Internet to "explode", revealing the white BlackBerry Classic, Candy Crush Saga officially landed in Windows Phone, Kaspersky Internet Security 2015 had sessions The version running Mac OS X, the diseases of computer "addicts", . are the most concerned news of the week!

1- How Cortana on Windows 10 works

Slower than Apple Siri and Google Now, but Cortana will surely be a heavyweight competitor in the currently bustling virtual assistant market. The presence of a virtual assistant from Microsoft will be one of the most notable points about Windows 10.

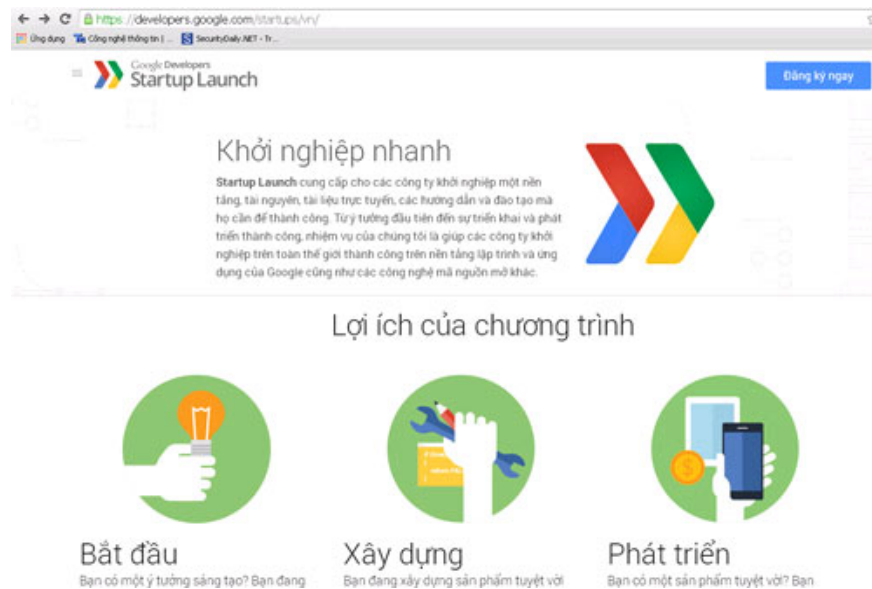

After debuting in the US this year, Cortana is starting to expand its coverage worldwide. With a series of "vortex kicks", Microsoft is clearly planning Cortana to become Siri's serious rival. See details!

2- How to restore contacts deleted in Gmail

When using Android smartphone, phone contacts on the phone will be synchronized via Google Gmail account. In case this contact is accidentally deleted on Gmail, users can use the following method to recover. See details!

3- Google brings Developers Startup to Vietnam

On 8.12, Google officially launched Developers Startup Launch - a dedicated guide for mobile developers on the Vietnamese market with a fully Vietnamese interface.

Google Developers Startup Launch is designed by Google application developers, which contains many articles, toolkits to help young programmers create new and unique Android applications, to contribute to enriching the content of applications on mobile devices. See details!

4 to 10 events that caused the Internet to "explode"

Every year-end, Time magazine announced the results of the election of "10 most prominent events" in a wide range of fields. Remarkably, there is a list of events that have caused the global online community to fever in the year. See details!

5- Reveal BlackBerry Classic in white

The fact that the BlackBerry Classic will be white has been rumored by many black fans before, but today we have a first render image of the device. This picture was made by a member of N4BB based on the holster for Classic White accessories sold on CrackBerry website's online shop.See details!

Summary of the hottest tech news of December 2 (Continued)

---

6- Candy Crush Saga officially hits Windows Phone

So after a while with information leaked as well as available on iOS and Android platforms, today, developer King has officially released the title game Candy Crush Saga famous for Windows Phone users.See details!

7- Notable moments on Facebook and YouTube 2014

2014 is coming to an end and leading Internet service providers are taking turns summarizing outstanding events in the past 12 months.

With 1.3 billion members from all over the world, every issue of life is clearly reflected on Facebook. Among these, the most interesting topic is the World Cup. The biggest football event on the planet has attracted more than 3 billion content sharing sessions. Comments and likes from over 350 million people.See details!

8- Kaspersky Internet Security 2015 has version running Mac OS X

According to Kaspersky, although the main attack trend of hackers is still through Windows and Android operating systems, this does not mean that Mac OS X operating system is safe.

Since the beginning of 2014, the company has discovered more than 2,000 malicious code targeting Mac OS X users. In it, there are many malicious code to spy on users to collect personal information, steal money and even Encrypt personal files for ransom.See details!

9- The diseases of computer "addicts"

Along with many utilities, using too many computers also poses a high risk of health damage, especially joints and vision.

Recently, the official website of the Department of Health and the National Association of Medical Physicians has written an introduction on this issue, based on consultation with Dr. Luong Tue Van, Department of Rehabilitation Hospital under Taiwan National University.See details!

10- The slogans make the iPhone's success

For each different iPhone generation, Apple launched different slogans based on the prominence of that product line. Up to now, "apple house" has used 9 slogans for 10 generations of iPhones. See details!

You finished reading the article "Summary of the hottest technology news of December 2" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.

---