On a computer, changing the desktop wallpaper is quite simple. You can change the wallpaper in two different ways: by changing each image individually, or by creating an album to change it continuously.

Furthermore, the ability to continuously change the Windows 10 wallpaper has always been a topic of interest for many users, from older versions like XP to the current Windows 10. This guide on how to continuously change the Windows 10 wallpaper is a small trick we want to share with our readers. We wish you success.

By default, Windows lock screen wallpapers display unique and distinctive images. However, most people don't know where these images are stored, and many users want to use them as wallpapers for other computers or as permanent backgrounds. Through the previously shared guide on turning Spotlight images into Windows 10 wallpapers, we hope to help you quickly and easily obtain beautiful, artistic images that frequently appear in Spotlight as your Windows background.
