

Talk to netbooks

Thank you 'savior' - netbook. Without you, the manufacturers' sales figures will be worse than today.

Thank you " savior " - netbook. Without you, the manufacturers' sales figures will be worse than today.

First of all, thank the netbook savior , because without you, the sales figures will be worse than the current bad level in the " Mr. " Economic era going into the " toilet ". In fact, maybe you " sold yourself " a little good. You are also very cheap compared to your brothers. Your attraction is great, to the blue eye of all the giants. Naturally, our consumers were once used to make Hung Vuong "lie in the tiger " to fight a ceremony not only between the forces of Son Tinh and Thuy Tinh, but also between " No Tinh " and " Xop Tinh ". , " Apple " (Nokia, Microsoft, Apple), even " Goose Wood " are also behind the ravine. And " old man " Windows XP, which had been covered with dust for many years, was suddenly able to return to the table, sipping the last cup of wine .

The birth of Netbook made major computer manufacturers involved.

(Photo: Davekemick) .

But are you just a bargain toy, a jewelry that is no more and less, and your success comes from that?

Surprisingly, many people can buy you back without a complaint, while your true ability is not much. So many years people have closed their eyes to chase speed numbers, capacity, crazy size, thirst for GHz is immediately promoted by GB menu. Suddenly, how could these "hot blooded" people be satisfied with your weak Atom chip? Or have you ever regained your heart when those people suddenly regret regretting when watching the shocking frames when watching HD videos on Youtube? Maybe people will just get excited once, then they will learn from the experience and buy a notebook properly. At Christmas time, the year of the New Year has come, promotion is not much more expensive than you.

We have long wondered: What are you really? Utensils or toys? A suitable companion for those who go, a laptop solution for the poor, or a removable toy for IT devotees? Your keyboard is so small that typing long paragraphs is not really "effortless", your screen is also small, watching HD movies is just to make it hard for people close to you.

It is true that you are most suitable as a jewelry, connecting 3G is just to add an excuse for your master to take out right before the people. But be careful, because the phone also has that function! And in terms of making jewelry, iPhone or Blackberry do better than you, because they don't need to start up, the keyboard is smart, pocket-sized again. You are only really useful when people go online for a long time and want to type something longer.

Netbooks are between mobile and notebooks. (Photo: Devicedaily) .

What to do with you, when you're "half lean" between mobile and notebook? Damn, I also bought you. So are the others. But almost never use it. I rarely see you in the street, so where are you? Are all of your family still lying on the cushion seats, loosening in the kitchen or splitting in the master's bedroom?

But one thing is certain: you don't deserve to be weighed on the table. Who would have thought of the idea of ?? putting you on the bench of benchmarking tools to measure battery life? And of course, the standard of the so-called Mobile Mark 2007 they give, or rather the graph of the results they use, is not the perfect type. But just thinking about bringing a small lady "gold leaf stems" like you up for the gruesome, hard-to-measure people like benchmarker has also been too subtle. It is unbelievable that even Patrick Moorhead, vice president of Marketing AMD, after reading the article, is still serious to comment that . using 3DMark to measure is more standard!

The world seems to have few, few people understand you .

You finished reading the article "Talk to netbooks" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.

