

Technology jokes: User or network administrator

After death, the programmer's soul flew to the sky, and the angel welcomed him with a voice:

After death, the programmer's soul flew to the sky, and the angel welcomed him with a voice:

- During his lifetime, he did not cause much sin, allowing him to choose to enter a computer heaven or hell.

He told the angel to see heaven. It is a modern computer center, full of the latest, most modern computers, impeccable multimedia, the server is off the table . in general it is paradise.

The saint declared:

- If you choose paradise, you will be the user here.

He was happy to go but still offered to add:

- Please show me what the hell is like?

- It is also here, only he will be the system administrator.

Close the windows

A project manager, a programmer, and a computer repairman who was walking in the car were sprayed with tires. Three people began to think of a solution.

The project manager said: "Please take a taxi and after 10 minutes we will arrive".

The developer said: "We have a driver guide here. I can easily change the tires and then we continue on."

The mechanic interjected, "First off the engine and start it again. Maybe that will solve the problem."

Suddenly, a Windows software engineer came by. Seeing that, he advised, "Try closing all the windows, jump out of the car, then jump in and try again."

1. Technology jokes: IT standards for recruiting wives

You finished reading the article "Technology jokes: User or network administrator" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.