

The 10 best extensions of Google Chrome for work and entertainment

Some add-ons of Google's Chrome browser can increase productivity, some may increase the user's ability to entertain.

Network administrators - Google recently released a series of extensions for Google Chrome, bringing the total number of Chrome extensions to over 300. Some of Google's Chrome browser add-ons can increase productivity, some with can increase entertainment for users.

As a beta project, extensions appear with caveats from Google. Until now, Google currently supports extensions in the latest beta version of Chrome, so if you like to get a stable and official browser, you have to give up the add-on tools. this time. There is a problem with Chrome version that supports extensions, named "Beta Channel" version, which only works on Windows XP and Vista, does not work on Windows 7, but Google has promised that those extensions will Soon working on Chrome for Mac version.

Some add-ons of Google's Chrome browser can increase productivity, some may increase the user's ability to entertain. Here are the add-ons among them:

Web of Trust (WOT)

Web of Trust can alert users about risky websites that are trying to harm visitors, distribute malware and send spam. WOT community performs scanning of websites. The danger level of websites is continuously updated by millions of WOT community members and from many other trusted sources.

One interesting thing about WOT is that it does not lock the site to users, but it allows users to view it with images and know when they are venturing into dangerous areas.

Xmarks Bookmark Sync

Xmarks is one of the most popular 'bookmark' tools. It allows users to backup their bookmarks and allows them to synchronize them via computers and browsers - Firefox, Safari, IE and now Chrome. Xmarks allows users to control which bookmarks will be synced with any computer, allowing them to keep their bookmarks secret at home while syncing everything to a computer working at the office.

Shareaholic for Google Chrome

The Chrome extension library offers many options for integrating web content with social networking sites like Twitter or Facebook. Shareaholic is an extension of the same type.

Users may find it interesting because this tool supports many popular social networks like Twitter, Facebook, Digg, Reddit, LinkedIn, etc. but it also integrates with Gmail, Yahoo and has the ability to customize. high.

Share, save or email the page you visit on Twitter, Facebook, Gmail, Google Reader, etc. Also, you can share your videos, blogs and photos.

LastPass for Chrome

LastPass is an online password manager and form filler that not only helps you manage a large number of passwords for social networks and other websites but also helps you to protect them securely.

This extension allows you to import from well-known password archives like Roboform, KeePass, PasswordSafe, MyPasswordSafe, Skipper, TurboPasswords, PassPack, or Firefox and IE password managers, as well as export them. It has the ability to capture passwords for forms that are unlike AJAX.

Sensitive data is encrypted internally before being uploaded so anyone who wants to plug in your information cannot access it. One-time passwords and screen keyboards are also very effective in protecting your password list.

IE Tab

Because some Windows only work with Internet Explorer, Chrome's IE Tab extension allows you to run IE from within a Chrome tab, from which you can display your favorite pages within Chrome. You can also configure the extension so that it can automatically switch to IE tab for some URLs you specify.

Cooliris

Cooliris gives you quick access to photos and videos. Instead of having to click through multiple photo pages and wait for each render page, you can scroll through an endless 3D Wall to search for photos and videos on Google, YouTube, Flickr, Picasa, Facebook, .

Also you can search online retailers. Cooliris Channels allows you to access multiple videos and movies from Hulu, CBS, Fox, Sony . You can customize your settings and share Cooliris with friends on Facebook, .

ShowIP

This extension is as simple as its name, ShowIP lets you check the IP address provided to you by the ISP.

MakeGadget

MakeGadget allows you to get a URL and can access it through a simple pop-up like gadget. This method is really useful if you have a mobile web application that you want to use on your desktop browser. MakeGadget uses the HTML5 database to remember the last URL you entered.

RandomMagic

RandomMagic is a decision support tool. It adds three small applications: coin flipper, dice roller and random number generator. When faced with a solution where you can't decide, let RandomMagic do that for you.

Jamendo Radio

This extension adds a radio player to play music from www.jamendo.com. Jamendo stores a lot of music under subscriptions, so if you want to support DRM-free songs, Jamendo is a place you need to visit.

A pop-up will list the configured channels, although you can still configure the channels yourself. To configure, click the name; while the radio is turned on, a pop-up will display the control task like / Pause, Stop, Next and volume control.

You finished reading the article "The 10 best extensions of Google Chrome for work and entertainment" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.