What is a stone planer?

Stone shavers are a household appliance commonly used in restaurants, tea shops, cafes and even in households. This tool makes it easy for users to shred ice cubes to put in drinks or preserve food.

What types of stone planers are there?

Currently on the market, stone shaping machines are divided into 2 main types: Semi-automatic and automatic. Each has its own advantages and disadvantages. Specifically:

1. Semi-automatic stone planer (manual stone planer)

Manual stone planer is designed with a storage compartment, inside with a blade. In addition it has a lever above and a tray below. With this type of machine, requires users to use the power during the process of stone cutting.

Their advantages are simple, compact design with various styles suitable for families. However, they have small capacity so the process of shaving will take a long time and take a lot of effort.

2. Automatic stone shaping machine

This type of machine, you just need to kick the slot then plug in the power is the machine will operate and perform the cell phase. The price is more expensive than the manual planer, but it offers a lot of convenience for use as:

1. Automatic stone shaping machine can adjust the distance of the blade, can make a planed stone, such as snow, powder, smooth . thanks to automatic adjustment buttons.
2. Large capacity, rapid stone shavings do not take much time to wait.
