3. Thought about to have a hearty meal, flying lions biting giraffes and bitter endings

The intense confrontation between a mongoose and three lions in the Maasai Mara National Reserve, Kenya was recorded by Jérôme Guillaumot, a wildlife photographer.

As soon as he climbed out of the cave, the civet let out a shriek and seemed ready to fight. On the contrary, the lion seemed frightened and kept moving backwards. Reached by the momentum, the mongoose bared sharp teeth against the enemy. In front of a small but aggressive opponent, the lions do not dare to rush to the small prey, though they are dominant in quantity.
