

The coder writes chatbot to let him talk to his lover and the ending

Unfortunately, his chatbot hasn't been working for a long time, but his girlfriend discovered it because the reply speed was never seen before.

A Li coder in China is working for the JD.com e-commerce platform, because it is too busy to answer all the messages of lovers on WeChat. Therefore, this guy decided to make chatbot capable of answering all "queries" of his girlfriend, operating 24/7.

But, unfortunately, his chatbot hasn't been working for long, but his girlfriend discovered it because the reply speed was never seen before.

Artwork: Internet.

Any girl will feel happy if she receives a message like this from her boyfriend: "Darling, this is the 618th day together. Hope you still feel as bright as the sun."

However, if the subsequent messages have strange content as below, they will certainly suspect that this boyfriend has a problem or that is chatbot saying love, not real people.

"Temperature: 18 - 34 degrees Celsius; Wind power: Level 3; Air quality: 42 points."

And chatbot is still just chatbot, can't be as skillful as humans. After just one day, Li's girlfriend sent 300 text messages with his chatbot and wondered how quickly his boyfriend answered the message and the content was strange.

Li shared a part in the conversation between Ly's chatbot and his girlfriend on Weibo. It quickly became a hot topic on Weibo over the weekend. Many viewers want to ask for this source code of chatbot.

However, Ly's share also received mixed opinions. The majority of Chinese netizens are interested and think that using chatbot to help them avoid being boring and not abandoned is a good plan, while others give negative opinions about the sentimental point of view. something that can't be digitized like that.

After only a few days of sharing his story, Li's Weibo account was suddenly erased. Perhaps, his girlfriend knew everything. Hopefully this guy will be lucky.

Chatbot is a computer program that interacts with users through a simple interface, sound or in the form of messages with natural language. Currently, chatbot is present in almost all social platforms.

In China, many bad guys took advantage of chatbot to use it to trick money from light-hearted boys and girls, willing to believe in beautiful love over the Internet.

You finished reading the article "The coder writes chatbot to let him talk to his lover and the ending" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.