

The dying matches have reached the pinnacle of art

The matches that are about to die can seem like they can only be thrown away into unique and miraculous art works through the eyes of artist Stanislav Aristov that many people enjoy and admire.

The matches that are about to die can seem like they can only be discarded and turned into unique and miraculous art works through the eyes of artist Stanislav Aristov.

1. The world of microbes shimmering, miraculous on your teeth
2. National Geographic: 19 wonderful natural photos 2016

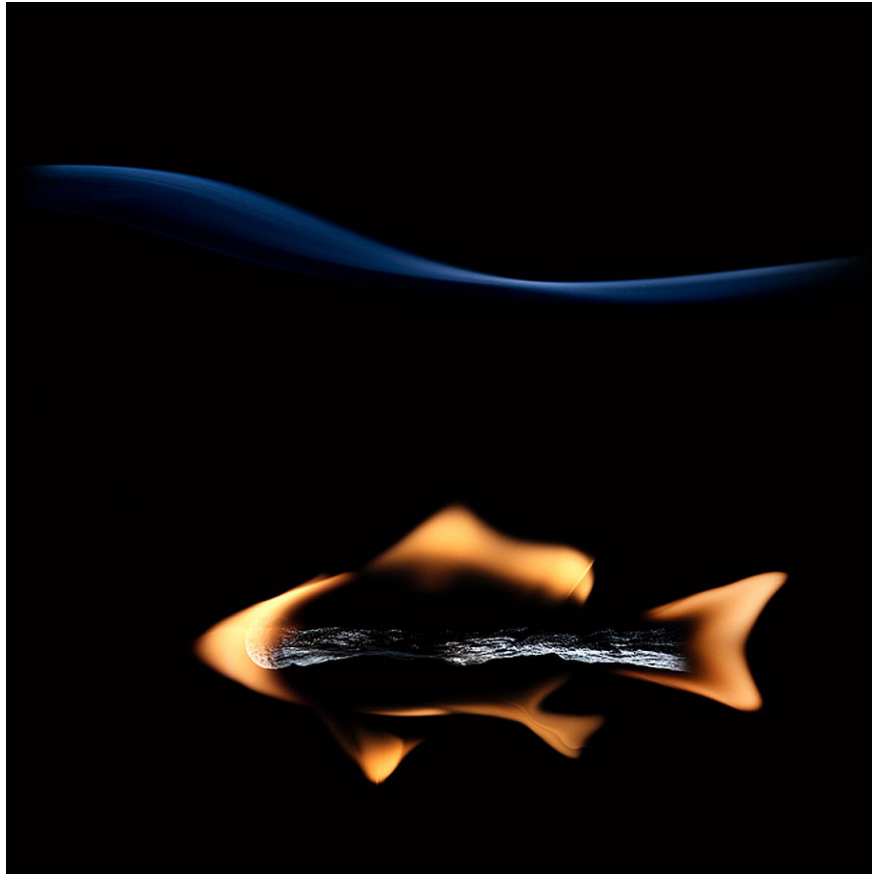

The unique artworks created by the burning match of the talented artist Stanislav Aristov surprised many people.(Sina Source)

Through Stanislav Aristov's lens, each bad match match has its own beauty.(Sina Source)

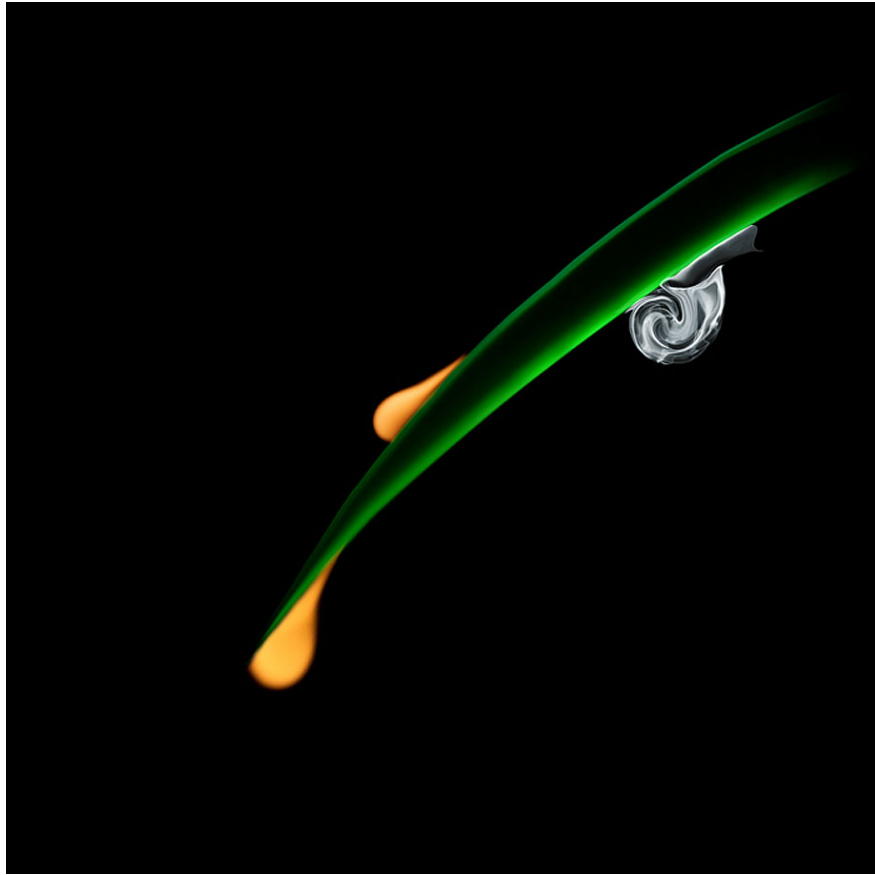

Stanislav Aristov created these strange works of art when matches were about to die. That was the time when they were the easiest to bend. (Sina Source)

But it is also the most fragile matchsticks, so the artist's manipulation must be very subtle, gentle and skillful.(Sina Source)

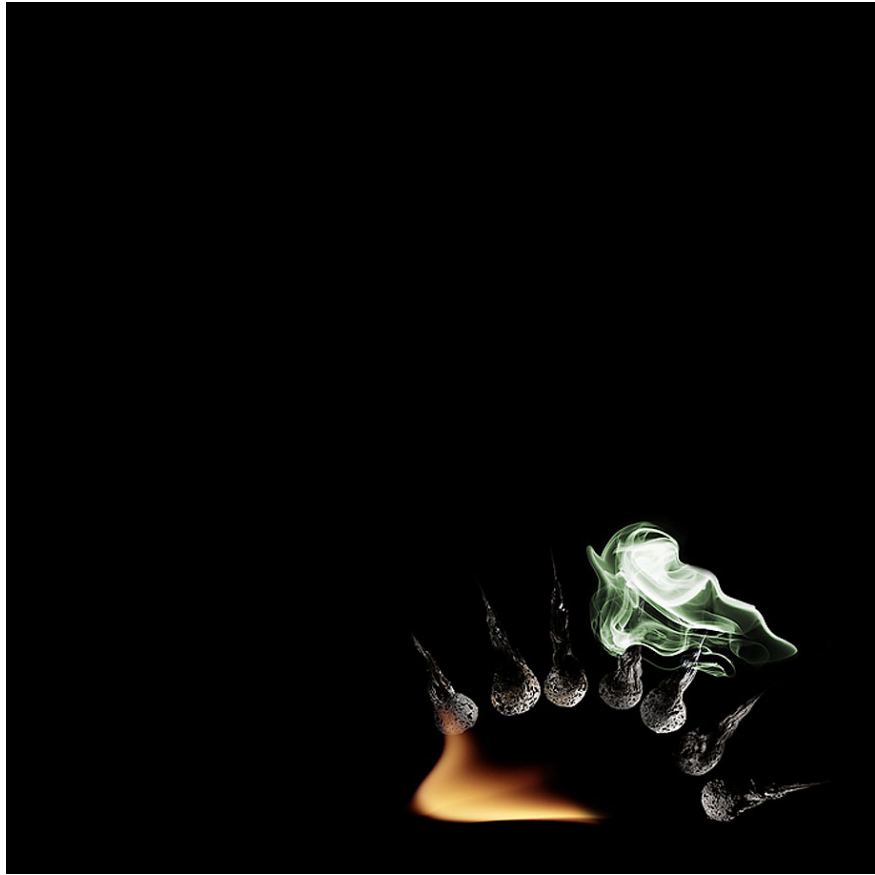

After successful shaping, Stanislav Aristov quickly captured the moment when the "dancing" flames were gradually fading on the matchstick body with smoke rising at the last seconds.(Sina Source)

Stanislav Aristov uses macro lenses and studio flash to get the most realistic photos.(Sina Source)

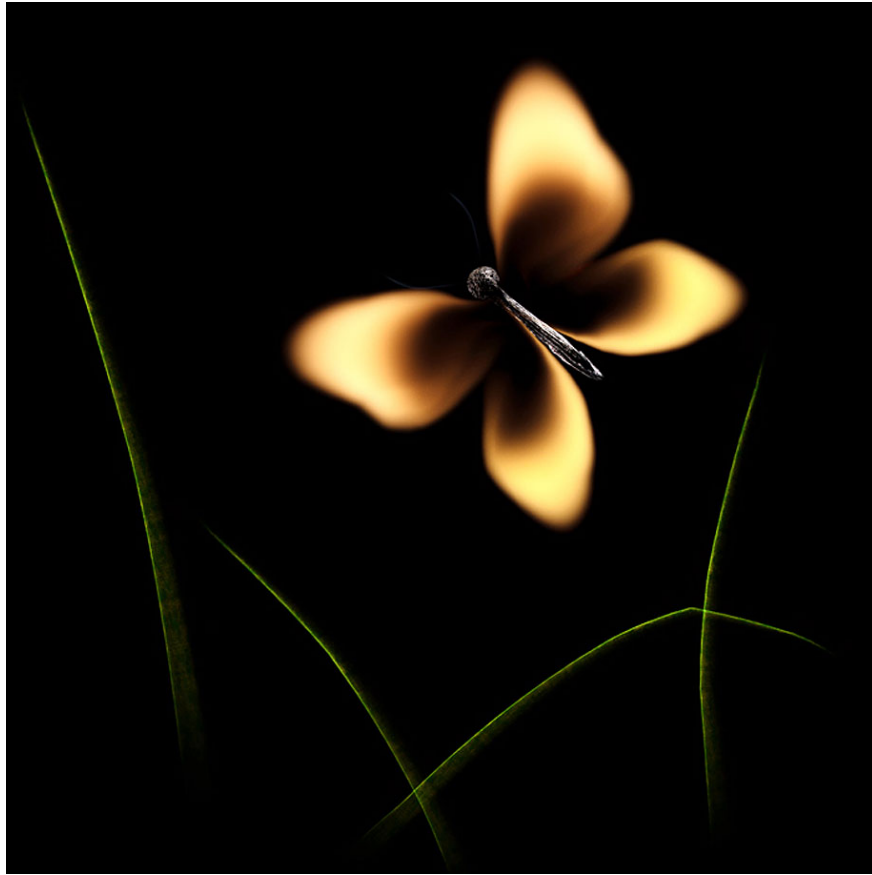

Through the final Photoshop photo editing process, Stanislav Aristov showed the public extremely interesting and unique images of dying matches.(Sina Source)

Even so, Stanislav Aristov's talent and creative photographic works are still admired by many.(Sina Source)

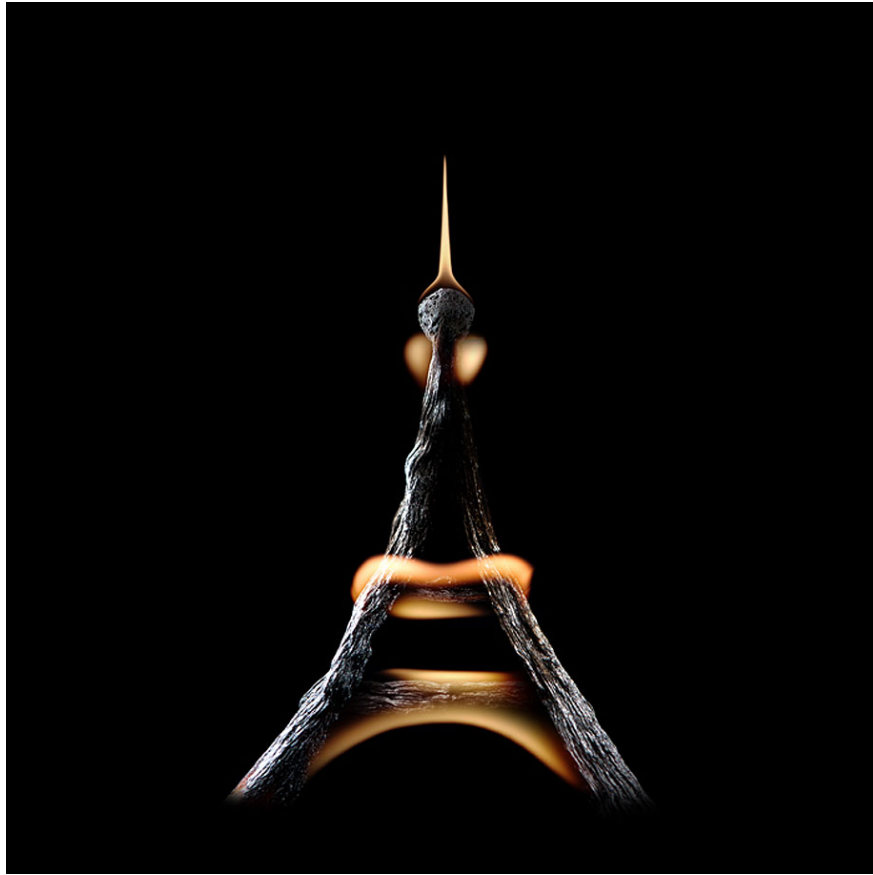

Stanislav Aristov shared, these imminent matches are symbolic of the past, ears of life.(Sina Source)

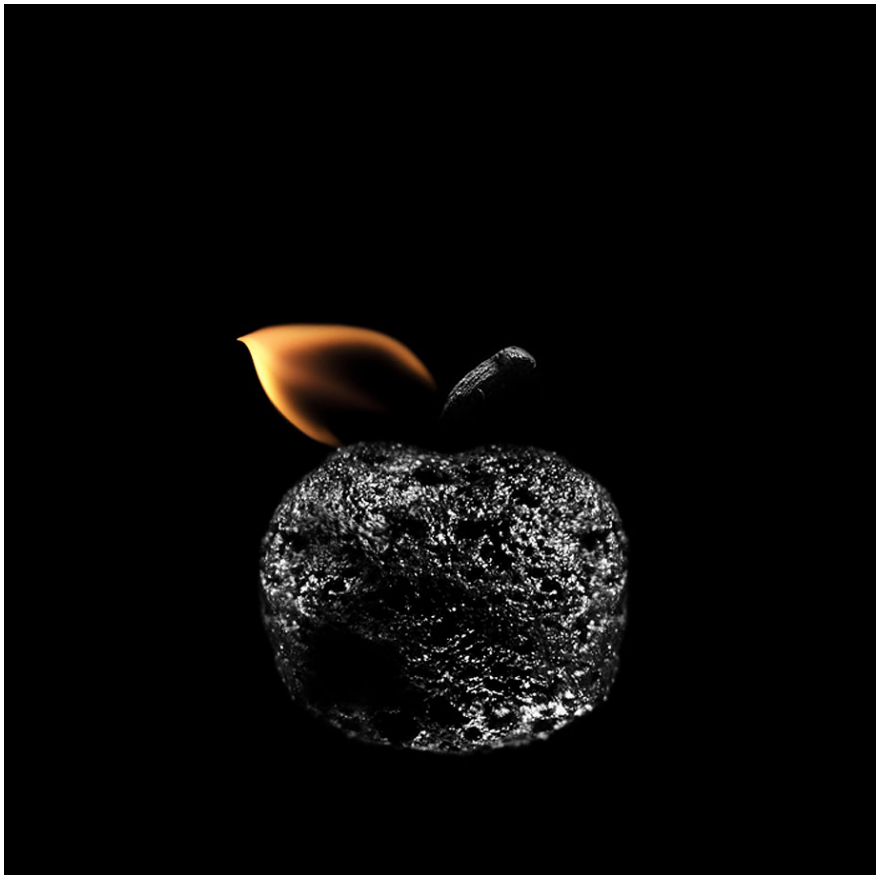

"The fire is life, the burnt-out part of the match represents the past, the fumes are memories that follow us throughout our lives and the unburnt part is the future."(Sina Source)

See some other works by talented artist Stanislav Aristov.

The Eiffel Tower from the matches is about to die.(Sina Source)

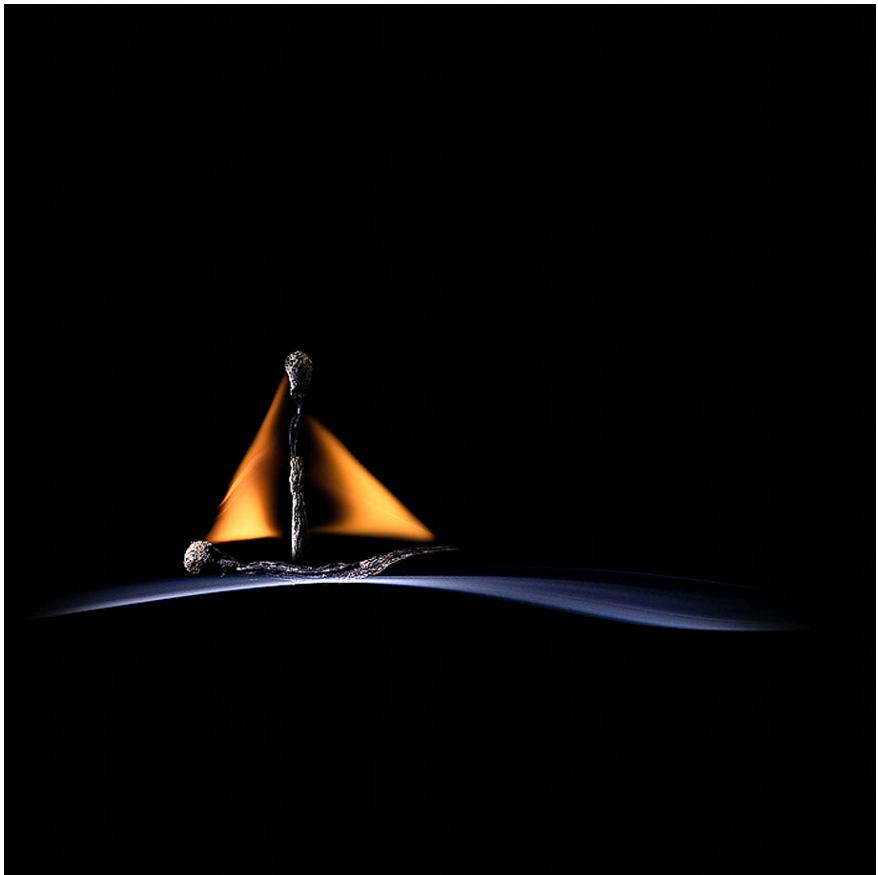

Small apple is beautiful like a meteorite.(Sina Source)

The cotton grass wipes impressively.(Sina Source)

The notes of fire dance on the ripples of smoke.(Sina Source)

You finished reading the article "The dying matches have reached the pinnacle of art" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.