

The elephant was hostile, three times chasing the walking couple

A man took a picture of an elephant in a Thai national park chasing two joggers on the road that shocked many people.

1. Cobra snakes its head in a beer can and an unexpected ending
2. The bank has to suspend operations because of the cat's actions

A man took a picture of an elephant in a Thai national park chasing two joggers on the road that shocked many people.

Kamron Petprayoon uploaded a series of photos on Facebook showing a man and a woman being chased by an elephant on a paved road through Khao Yai National Park.

Petprayoon shared that these joggers sought to stop, approach at a distance that was too limited to take a selfie when the elephant crossed the road. However, the unexpected situation occurred, the elephant did not cooperate, but the ferocious chase followed.

He also shared that the elephant was constantly chasing the couple even though they were running at a distance. He did three chases when both of them stopped running.

Petprayoon said that the joggers above finally escaped by running fast and leaving the animal, the elephant kept bouncing on the road until the forest guard dragged it away.

You finished reading the article "The elephant was hostile, three times chasing the walking couple" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.

---