

iOS 13 will continue to improve device speed and reduce errors. The refined user interface looks more neat.

Dark mode - Dark Mode, can be activated in the Control Center.

The new keyboard option allows users to swipe between characters to type words that will be tested or can be circulated internally only.

The Health app homepage is redesigned, better listing your daily activities. Hearing monitoring will have a separate section that will provide warning of ambient noise or noise when users listen to music with headphones. In addition, the menstrual cycle monitoring mode on the application is also comprehensively improved, which can compete with other applications such as Clue, Flo and Ovia.

Add a new feature that allows users to use the iPad as a second screen for the Mac to expand the display area, receive notifications on the Mac or even use Apple Pencil to draw.

The Reminders app is updated, dividing the main screen into 4 areas with different color pages, by default displaying a grid of all tasks, scheduled tasks, tasks to be done on the day, and tasks flagged task.

Screen Time, a tool to monitor the usage of Apple devices with new features, allows parents to limit children to children and not be allowed to communicate at certain times. For example, parents can set up so that their children cannot call anyone except them during the day.

Apple Books application is refreshed, the feature of tracking reading process and reward system has been updated to encourage users to read more.

Improved iMessage allows users to place photos, display names and select those who can see this information. In the conversation area has its own menu to send Animoji in the form of sticker and memoji.

The updated Maps application makes it easy for users to set up frequently visited locations and find their way there. In addition, the application also allows users to create groups of interesting locations and place images that represent groups.

The Find my Friends and Find my iPhone services are combined into a single new app called GreenTorch that comes with a physical badge that can be attached to non-Apple devices.

The new Apple Music application is being developed to become a standard program on the Mac.

Screen Time, Reminders, Effects, New Apple Books and stickers on Messages, Siri Shortcuts (the company's new service that lets you write your own Siri commands) are genuine software that will be brought to the Mac.

In addition, at the WWDC 2019 conference, Apple also plans to launch a new Mac Pro desktop and a new screen with the J290 code name that supports HDR.

watchOS 6

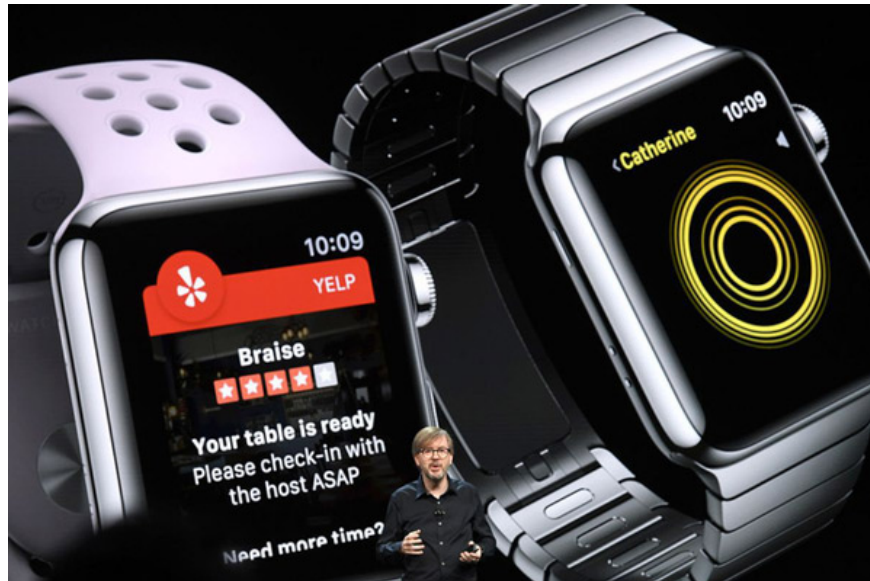

Apple Watch can be added to the App Store so that users can download the app at any time instead of having to install it via an existing iPhone app.

The Voice Memos application from iPhone, iPad and Mac is brought to the Watch so users can record quick notes from their wrists.

Watch can have Animoji and Memoji, synchronized from iPhone.

Watch will be retrofitted with Apple Books app and Calculator application.

Watch is added two new health monitoring applications, Dose, to remind you to take your medicines and Cycles to track your menstrual cycle.

The Watch will display more information outside of normal time such as audio status, battery life of hearing aids, environmental noise parameters and rain data.

Many new watch faces may be released by Apple in this event as the Gradient face displays colors according to user preferences, the face of California looks like a classic watch face that combines Roman and Arabic numbers, at least two The new X-Large face displays large-sized numbers in full color, the redesigned Solar Analog face looks like a sundial, and the new Subdial Infograph face.

You finished reading the article "The exciting new features of iOS 13, macOS 10.15 and watchOS 6 will be announced by Apple at WWDC" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.