

The Galaxy Z Flip is out of stock in Korea 'in a single note', forecasting out of stock in the US

As predicted by experts, Galaxy Z Flip has created a worldwide fever after its official launch.

Galaxy Z Flip, a clamshell folding smartphone with a compact, handy and extremely luxurious design, was officially introduced by Samsung at the Galaxy Unpacked 2020 event taking place on the morning of February 12 (Hourly Vietnam).

As predicted by experts, Galaxy Z Flip has created a worldwide fever after its official launch. The success of this product line even somewhat exceeded Samsung's expectations because it was less than 30 minutes after opening through the website of some online retailers, all the Galaxy Z Flip that Samsung expected. All distribution ants for the Korean market have been ordered. According to calculations, Samsung will sell at least 20,000 Galaxy Z Flip in the Korean market in the first week of release - double the Galaxy Fold.

Not only in Korea, the Galaxy Z Flip also immediately created a craze among tech players in the US, despite the relatively high price of the product: $ 1380 (about 32 USD). ,1 million). Almost all of the shipments that Samsung distributes to Best Buy retailer are owned. Besides Samsung, Best Buy is the main distributor of Galaxy Z Flip in the US market, and with Best Buy 'sold out' as currently, US users only have to order directly on the door. Samsung online store, promising delivery on February 18.

Galaxy Z Flip is the second folding smartphone that Samsung launched after Galaxy Fold. The commercial version of the Galaxy Fold went on sale at the end of September 2019, and almost immediately gained success when the product was 'sold out' shortly after a short launch in some major markets. However, in the later launches, success did not repeat with Samsung when the number of products sold plummeted. The reason is attributed to the negative impression from the market on the problems that Galaxy Fold encountered before the sale, and especially the high price, leading to those who love and are eligible. Owning this phone is almost all focused on the first order.

It was this unexpected situation that forced Samsung to launch and sell the Galaxy Z Flip earlier than expected, and especially the price was much more reasonable in order to regain the market before it fell into the opposite hands. prime.

The situation is still very positive for Samsung.

You finished reading the article "The Galaxy Z Flip is out of stock in Korea 'in a single note', forecasting out of stock in the US" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.