

The hidden features on Android used to troll extremely interesting friends

On Android smartphones or tablets, there are 5 hidden features that can be used to troll friends who are afraid of being green. In fact, normal users will be hard to recognize and easily deceived.

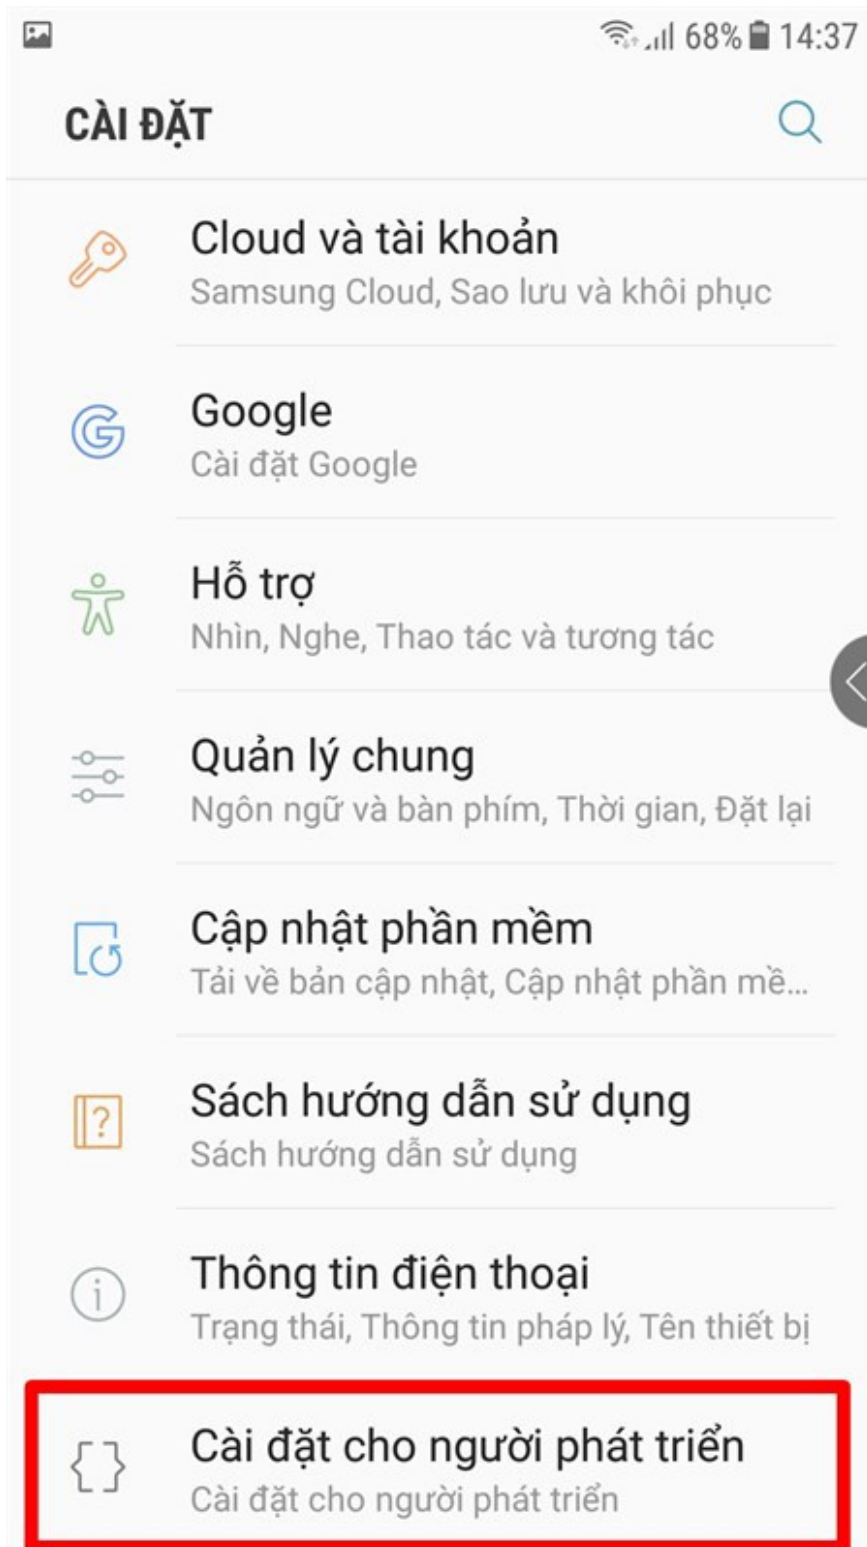

For those who do not have laptops available to make the screen blue to death to troll friends, do not be sad, now on Android smartphones or tablets have also integrated extremely interesting features so you can troll friends afraid of blue face.

Certainly with these jokes will help people have relaxing moments as well as learn more useful features on their smartphones. If you are interested in this joke, please join the Network Administrator.

Specifically, these 5 hidden features are all within the Developer Settings (Developer Options) section. If your smartphone has not been activated the Developer Options folder, you can follow the instructions below: First go to Settings> Phone information> Software information> Continuous touch 7-9 times to the line Version number .

After you have completed the above step, you will return to the Settings section, and you will be presented with the Settings for developers section. Now it's time to troll your friends.

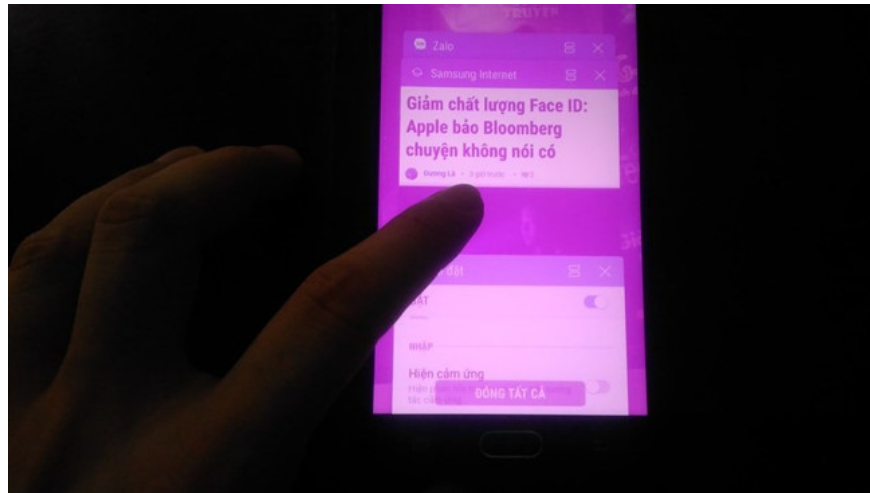

1. Show the cursor position

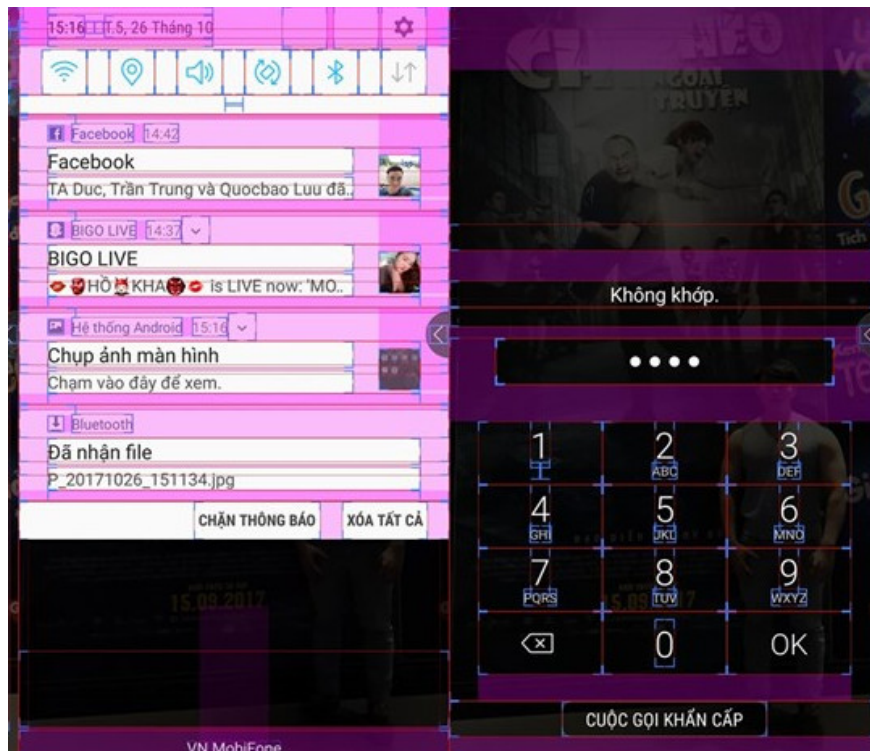

In the Settings section for developers, you turn on the cursor position, when swiping to the main screen the cursor will leave the zigzag, even if the screen is turned off, it will startle the victim. I thought my smartphone was broken.

2. Display the update screen

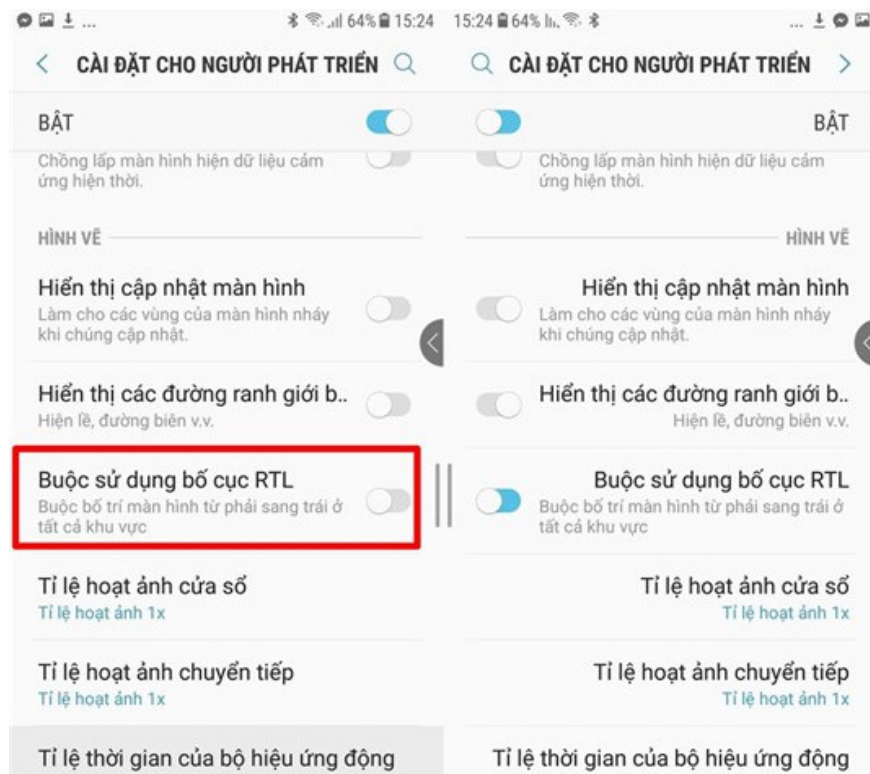

The next troll is that you show the touch screen, now, when the victim touches the phone screen to use it, the device will blink continuously, the more you will try to blink the stronger.

3. Display layout boundaries

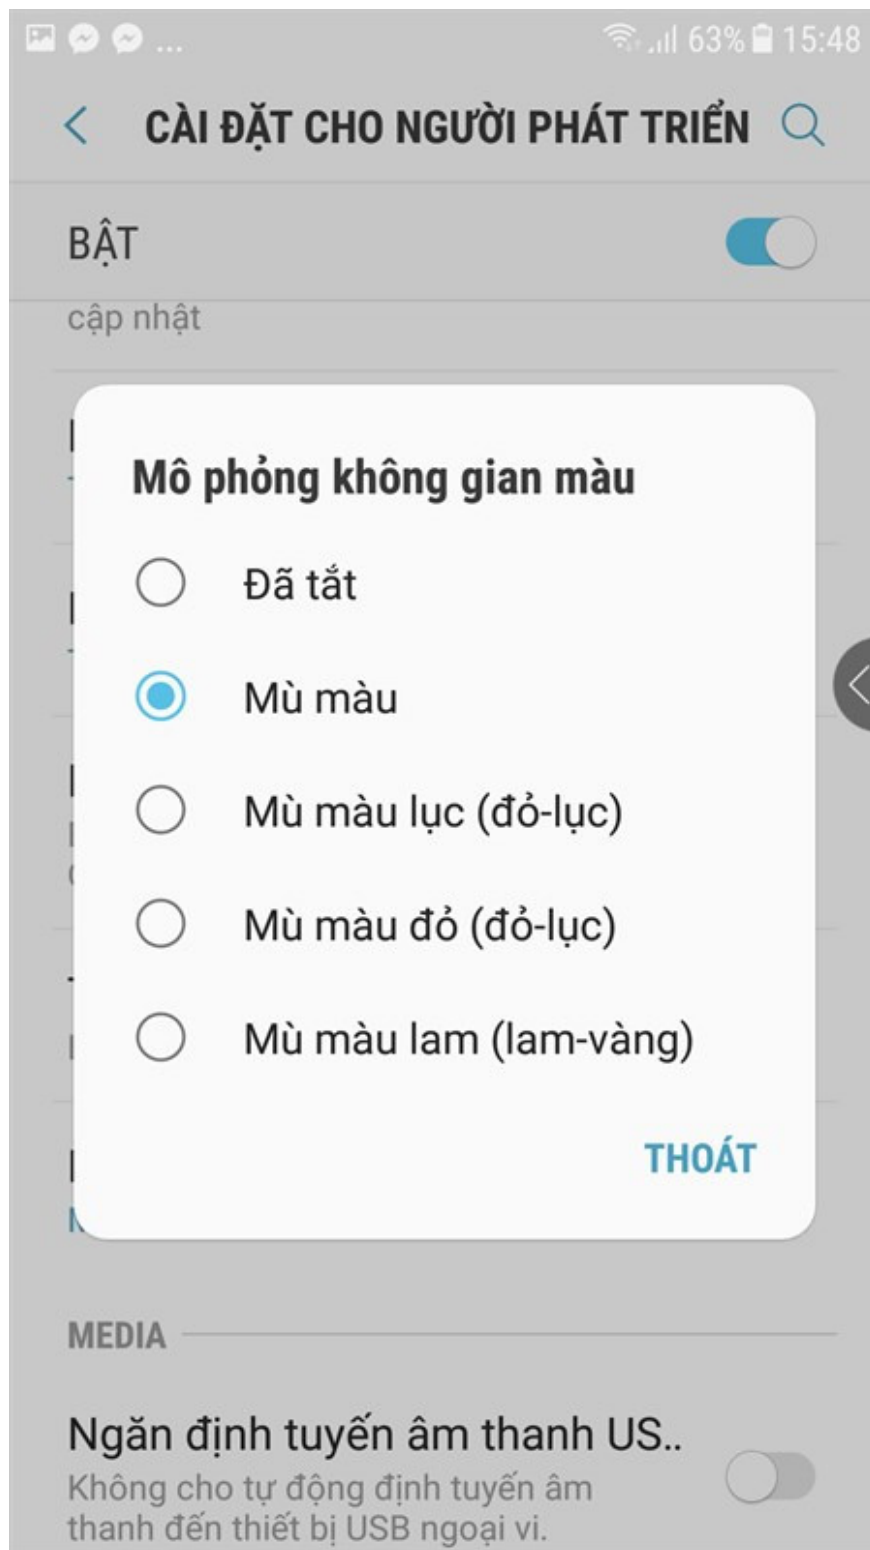

All applications or features on the phone will have a layout boundary, which will certainly make the victim crazy because he doesn't understand why his phone is like that.

4. Forced to use RTL layout

Continuing with the 4th joke, please select Forced to use RTL layout, at this time the interface as well as the layout on the phone will be flipped up, nowhere.

5. Finally simulate color space

Also on the Developer Settings section, you choose to simulate color space, select Color blindness at this time, the machine interface will turn into full black and white. Other color options apply the same

Hopefully, the troll games will help you have fun moments in the early days of the new year. However, in each event, please be happy, but not too happy to affect your relationship.

Hope you are successful.

See more:

1. Very cool troll Facebook app that helps friends have to wait for your message forever
2. Troll friends by creating "fake" virus on Notepad
3. Make fake computer errors to troll friends

You finished reading the article "The hidden features on Android used to troll extremely interesting friends" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.
