Galaxy Z Fold 6 and Flip 6 will be the most notable folding screen phone duo this year. Therefore, besides the innovations in specifications and feature sets, another piece of information is also receiving a lot of attention, which is the official launch time of both product lines.

Leaker Evan Blass, who is famous for sharing highly accurate information about upcoming technology products, recently shared a GIF of the banner of Samsung's upcoming Galaxy Unpacked event. This banner is likely leaked from the Samsung Korea website, showing that this year's Galaxy Unpacked event will take place on July 10, starting at 10 p.m. Korean time. This is also the time when the Galaxy Z Fold 6 and Flip 6 duo were officially launched.

In the GIF, we can also see two silhouettes projected from the rotating box on the right. A shadow forms the Galaxy AI icon, implying that Galaxy AI will remain an important focus on Samsung's new smartphone models. The remaining shadow resembles the Eiffel Tower, adding 'weight' to previous rumors that the event would be held in Paris.

Some other rumors also suggest that Samsung may hold a summer Unpacked event early this year, possibly to launch products before the opening of the Olympics in Paris starting on July 26.

In addition to the two high-end foldable smartphones, other possible announcements at the event include new Galaxy Watch smartwatches, including the Ultra model, and Galaxy Buds wireless headphones. Earlier this year Samsung revealed the Galaxy Ring at the Unpacked event in January, and we may see more information about this smart ring model at the upcoming July event.

Samsung usually holds at least two Unpacked events every year. The first event usually takes place in the first months of the year with a focus on introducing new Galaxy S series smartphones. The summer Unpacked event, scheduled to take place on July 10, is traditionally the occasion for Samsung to introduce its folding screen phones and other wearable devices to the public.
