

The Lion King's worst hunting failure made everyone laugh

Video showing the lion's lousy terrain was captured by Natasha, a tourist filming in South Africa next to a river or lake.

Video showing the lion's lousy terrain was captured by Natasha, a tourist filming in South Africa next to a river or lake.

The lion is known as the king of the grasslands, with the ability to hunt on land. Lions live and hunt in packs led mainly by female lions.

The characteristic of lions is ambush hunting, they often stealthily follow their prey and attack at close range. They will attack the respiratory system of their prey, biting or tearing the throat to bring them down quickly.

However, the lion's hunting is not always smooth, sometimes they also have unexpected 'accidents' like the video above.

In the hot season, the lake is a favorite place for all animals to come to drink water and avoid the sun. Therefore, this is also an ideal hunting ground for predators. In the video, a herd of antelope is wandering here without knowing that danger is near, lions are hiding in the hole watching them. But it seems that because the lion is so focused on tracking his prey that he forgets to observe the surrounding terrain. So when deciding to attack the prey, the lion accidentally jumped into the nearby water hole.

This made everyone who witnessed it burst into laughter. Where is the proud lion, now the lion is no different from a small, wet cat. In the end, the lion had no choice but to give up.

You finished reading the article "The Lion King's worst hunting failure made everyone laugh" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.
