

The maid killed the rat, made the meat mixed into the rice for the landlord and the ending was too bitter

A teenage maid in Benin confessed to killing rats and mixing rat meat into the family's family for revenge on them. The story just above made the internet community chilling as well as a reclining phen.

1. Sitting all day, how much exercise does it take to compensate?
2. No one expected the wheel to be made so complicated

A teenage maid in Benin confessed to killing rats and mixing rat meat into the family's family for revenge on them. The story just above made the internet community chilling as well as a reclining phen.

This bizarre 15-year-old maid named Felicia Cotonou confessed on the video. Felicia claimed that she became angry with her master because they thought they had abused her.

So, when asked to prepare jollof rice, a popular dish in many West African countries, Felicia killed many mice in the house. After that, she cut them and mixed rat meat into rice for the owner to eat.

When one of the owners of the house found that the meat dish looked strange, Felicia had to confess later.

Felicia Cotonou finally accepted to kill the mice and use their meat to blend into the family's rice.

The owner forced Felicia to respond to everything on a video and posted it on the Internet to warn others.

Watch video:

You finished reading the article "The maid killed the rat, made the meat mixed into the rice for the landlord and the ending was too bitter" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.
