1. Rifles:

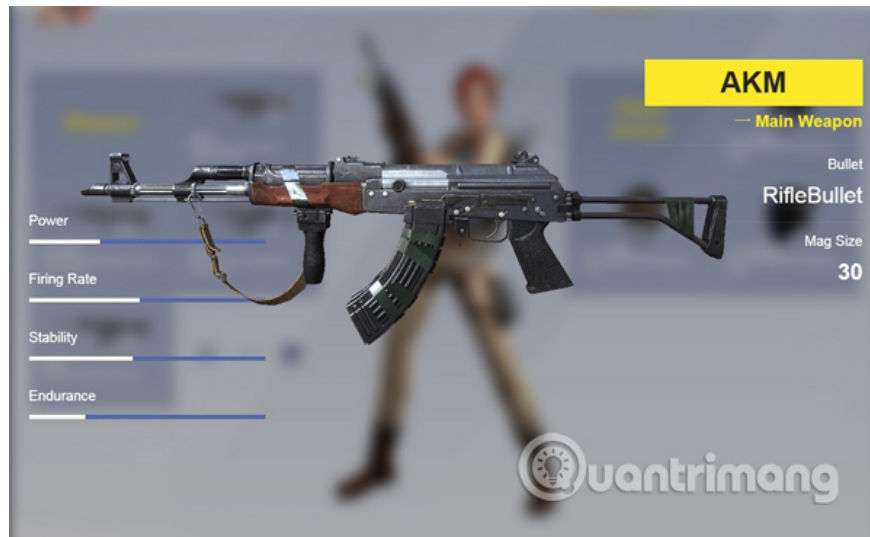

With the assault rifle genre in Rules Of Survival, we can mention a number of guns like M4A1, AR15, . The AR15 has a medium range of damage and a stable shooting ability.

With the M14EBR gun, players can see the advantage of this gun is very fast firing speed, accurate shooting, stable and appropriate when players use in single matches.

Next, with his popularity in shooting battles and being chosen by many people, AKM has high damage ability, strong firepower, simple design, large durable items and is often used for singles in game

Finally M4A1 upgrade version of AR15, a weapon with great stability, high customization ability while can be used with many other accessories, is the choice of many players in the game.

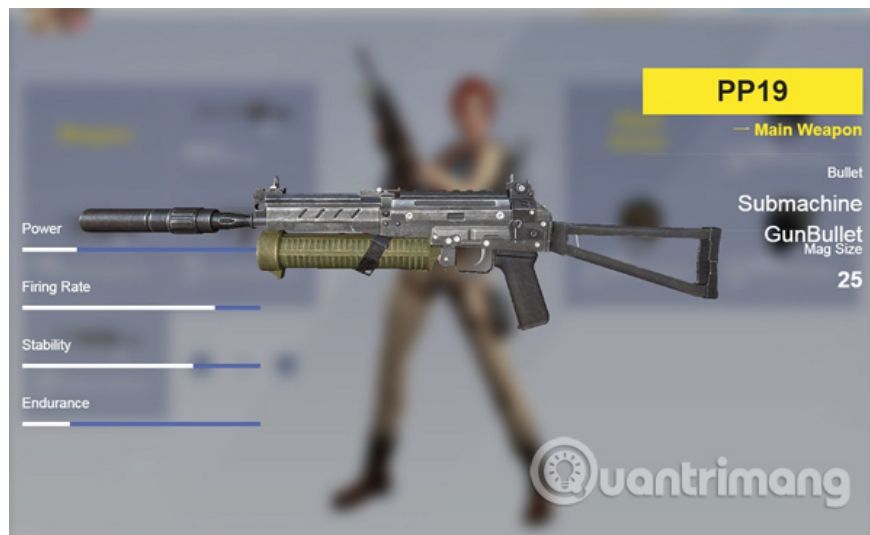

2. Submachine gun or machine gun:

In Rules Of Survival, it is common and often used by many people, including machine guns or submachines, such as M249, MP7 or PP19. The big advantage of submachine guns is that the weight is not so heavy that it can be easily moved.

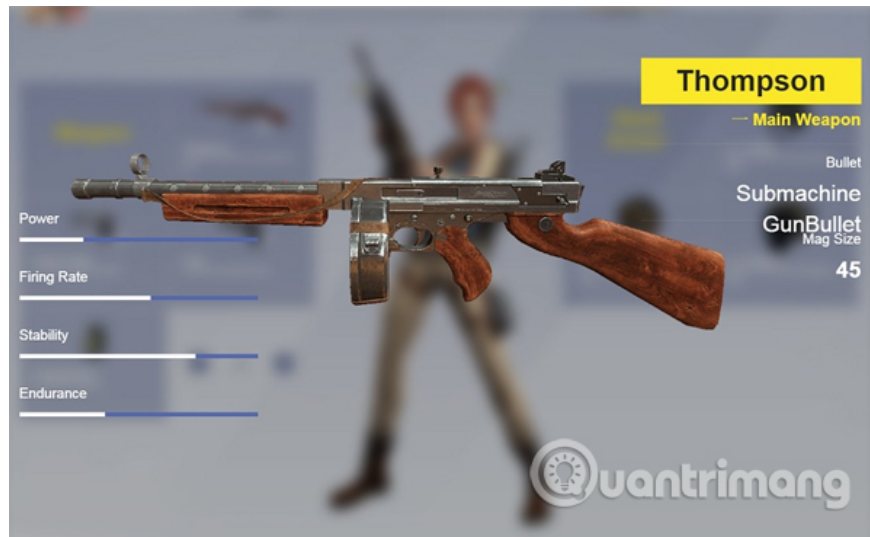

The M249 is equipped with large ammunition of machine guns, to be found in the relief box, capable of storing 100 bullets in a row continuously. Although the M249 has low stability but high damage and speed.

PP19 on Rules Of Survival is otherwise only prepared for 25 bullets, although it is normal to use up to 40 rounds in this way. PP19 will be suitable for fighting 1 vs 1, especially when you first land to loot the map.

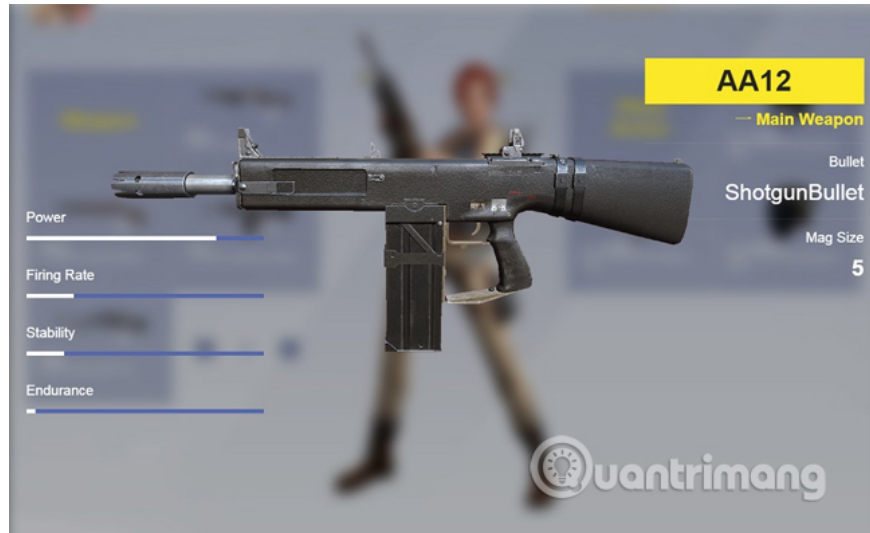

Thompson is a famous gun in submachine guns, with many advantages such as rapid fire rate, quick bullet change with large bullets. We can use it in 1 vs 2 matches at close range.

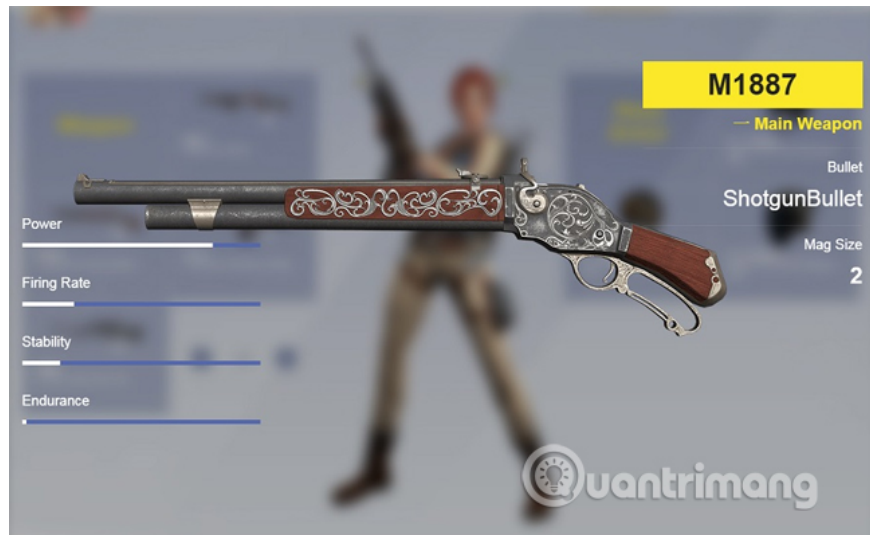

3. Hunting gun or Shotgun gun:

This type of hunting gun is suitable for fighting at close range, because it can cause strong damage. As soon as you land, we should quickly pick up these shotgun because it can cause the enemy to die quickly.

The AA12 will apply to narrow environments such as cities and forests, especially when the ring has narrowed. We can use this gun to ambush or destroy items on both sides of the road. The gun will have 2 modes that are semi-automatic and automatic with a removable cartridge of 9 rounds or round cartridges of 20 to 32 tablets.

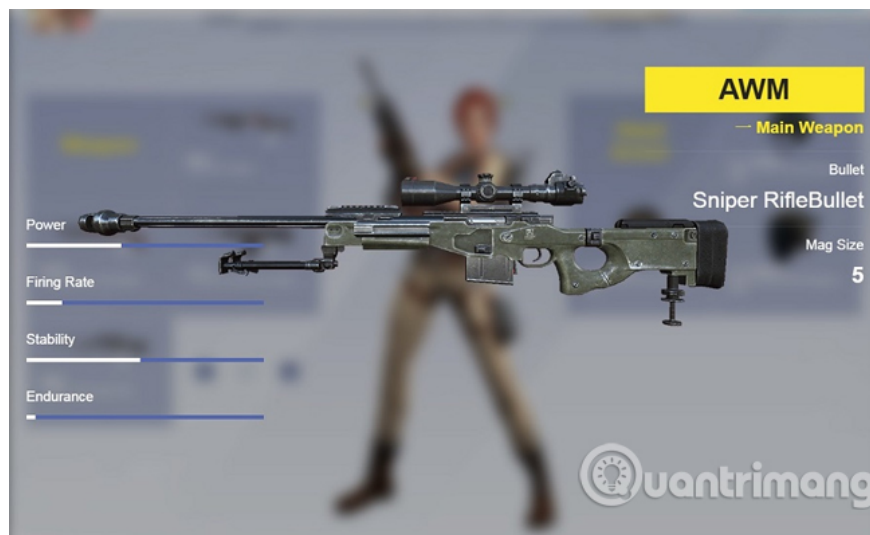

M1887 is the most popular Shotgun, but the number of bullets is relatively limited. This type of gun is usually only suitable for those who have the ability to on hit one kill, with tremendous damage.

4. Sniper gun:

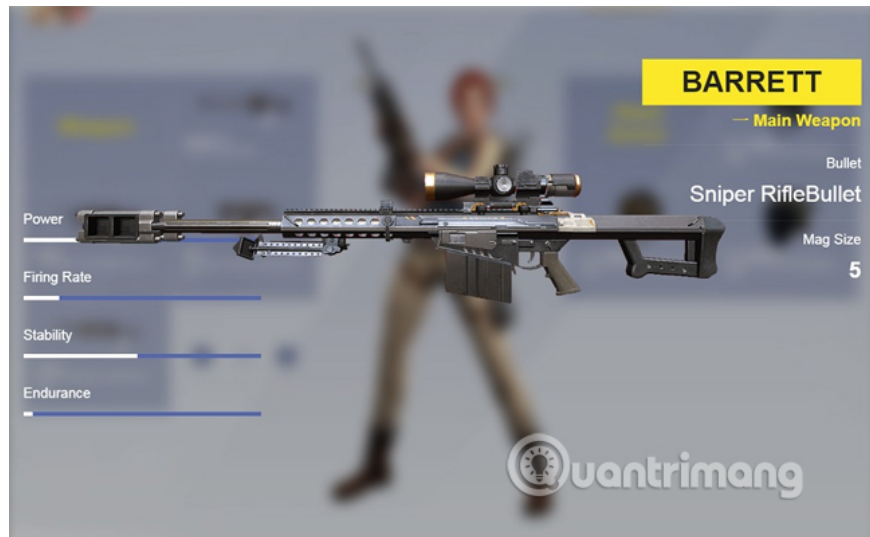

This sniper rifle is still generally suitable for players playing Rules Of Survival on computers rather than playing on the phone, due to the ability to flick the mouse more sensitive. If you want to play Rules Of Survival on your phone, you need skills.

The AWM password appears on many shooter games, including Rules Of Survival. Usually AWM will be used in case of ambush, defeating the opponent with a headshot. This gun has great damage, high accuracy. However, AWM's minus point is heavy weight, not mobile with only 5 bullets.

Next comes BARRETT long-range semi-automatic sniper, often used to attack a defensive line. BARRETT's damage ability is very high, at the top of the sniper rifle, but the weakness is mobility.

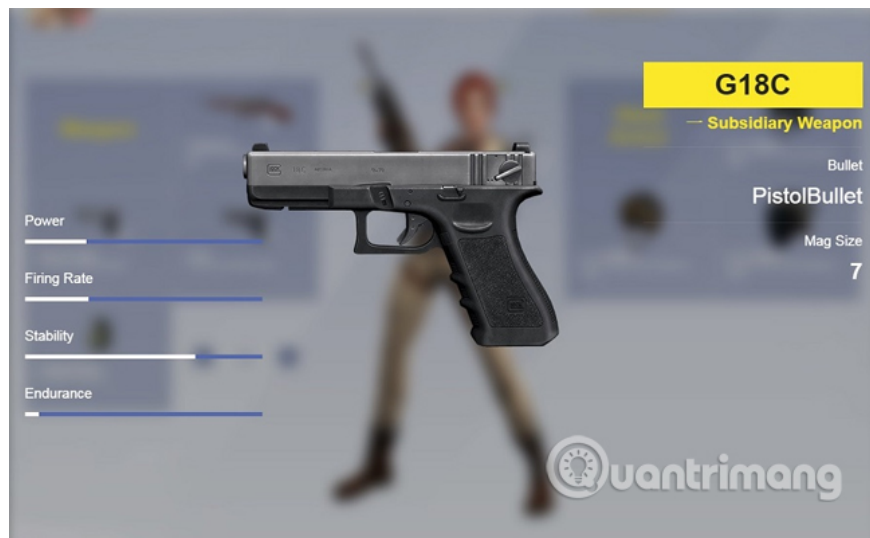

If shooting at an enemy's body will cause 92 damage if the target wears 1, 79 damage if it wears 2 and 59 damage if wear 3.

5. Pistol:

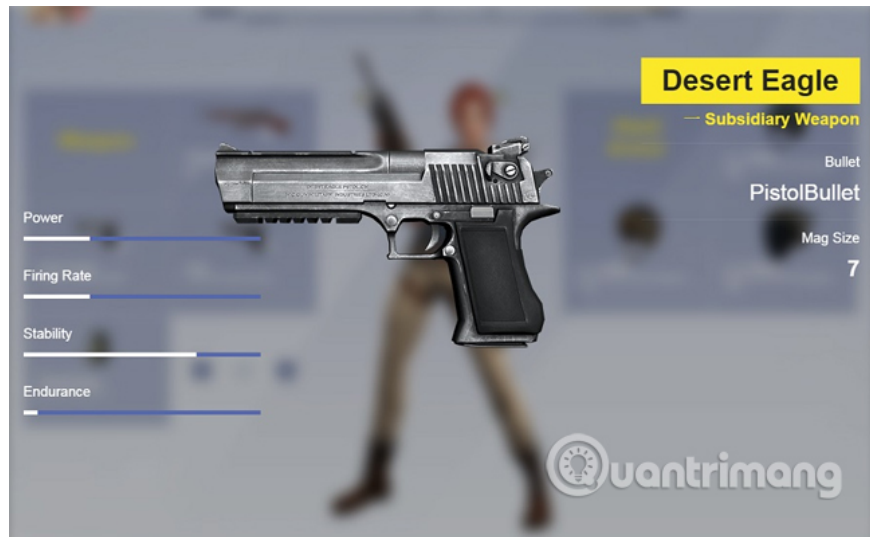

Guns compared to the above guns have less damage, but you should also prepare some pistols.

Glock 18C is a popular pistol in Rules Of Survival. The gun possesses 7 bullets in the magazine.

Desert Eagle is a large semi-automatic pistols operated by compressed air. This gun has a great power, but the shock and loud noise.

In general, pistols are often the last choice when you fight, if there are no bullets left for the remaining guns.

The above is a summary of the popular guns, often used in Rules Of Survival. Each gun has different characteristics, strengths and weaknesses for each type. Knowing the characteristics of the guns will help gamers to choose the right time to use, achieving greater efficiency when attacking opponents.
