

The police instructed to extinguish the fire when the gas tank was on fire

Burning gas cylinders don't explode right away. In this case, just calm down and know how to put out the fire, you can save your property, even your life and many people.

Burning gas cylinders don't explode right away. In this case, just calm down and know how to put out the fire, you can save your property, even your life and many people.

When the gas in the tank leaks out and burns, we should calm down and quickly troubleshoot immediately, the fire accident will not happen. But how to do it to ensure safety is not everyone knows.

The video of the fire extinguisher from the fire extinguishers' guide will help you know how to handle it safely in this case.

When making a tight grip on the cast iron valve, cut off the fire source, we must pay attention to using a wet towel, and avoid the fire to prevent burns. Use a fire extinguisher or water-soaked objects such as blankets and clothing to cover the fire to put out the fire.

In addition, because the gas escaping is flooded in the room, it is necessary to quickly open windows, doors to ventilate, and never turn off, turn on electrical equipment, no smoking, no phones in room.

See more:

1. 4 rules to remember when plugging in your phone to avoid electric shock or fire
2. Guide 8 escape skills when there is fire in high-rise buildings
3. Smoke - The killer killed invisible in fires

You finished reading the article "The police instructed to extinguish the fire when the gas tank was on fire" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.