Safe way when standing next to bullet save PUBG

Some gamers stand in the radius of the explosion grenade, but the grenade is out of sight of the player who can preserve life. This means that if the grenade is out of sight of a player by any object such as an electric pole, the rock will not be affected, even if standing in an explosion radius.

This is true because when the player's vision does not see the grenade, not counting the face away, it will not suffer damage. In particular we can use large barriers from concrete fences to small obstacles such as electric poles or road signs.

So when you fall into a bullet situation that is too close to you and cannot reach a safe place, then quickly find a nearby object to block your view, and stop the grenade's damage. .
