

The series of product designs that only look at human creativity is truly boundless

Looking at these product designs does not mean directing a fictional film director to have the imagination of flying high.

Combo of 5 bottles of chili sauce packed like mines, look how spicy it is.

The bookmark stickers look extremely pretty, but a closer look will see the story behind them.

This salt and chili salt combo, buy 1 get 2.

A book-shaped rocking chair, which looks uncomfortable in the butt but is beautiful, isn't it?

Passport covers with a map of the world, wherever you go, mark them.

Cans of mineral water are normal, but the design and name make everyone want to try to see how "dead" it is.

Integrated bench right on the jetty.

Lying on a chair at the bridge is getting more and more boring, then wearing this toes to swim quickly.

This system of buttons is pre-printed with a embossed pattern so that the blind can know what obstacles to avoid.

6-pack loaf of bread, 2 more promotional sunflower seeds is clearly charming.

This dish does not say nobody knows what: biscuits cone, put on your hands, dipped in chocolate sauce and then eat, clean, convenient, no need to wash anything.

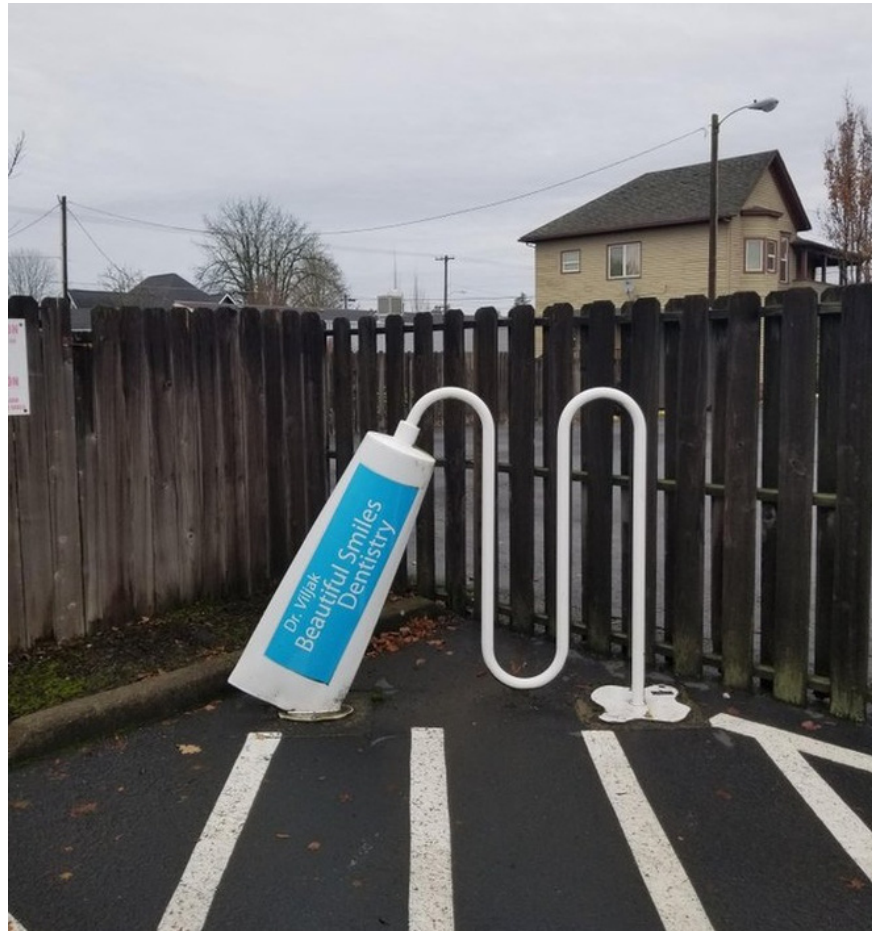

Signboard of a restaurant, serving dinner only so when the lights and then look out the word.

This dish should be applied in Vietnam as quickly as possible: The cold stone bowl, dipped in the hot pot is self-draining all the grease out.

The bottle of a gym, dumb-shaped, filled with water weighs exactly 1.5kg for guests to take home to practice.

The bicycle storage fence outside a dental clinic looks like a toothpaste tube.

Bonus: This dish really doesn't work, but it's cute so watch it for fun.

You finished reading the article "The series of product designs that only look at human creativity is truly boundless" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.