

The strangest objects ever taken on Mars surprised many

Scientists have captured many strange things on Mars, from spoons, squirrels, blueberries to women ... but no one is sure whether they are real or not.

Scientists have captured many strange things on Mars, from spoons, squirrels, blueberries to women . but no one is sure whether they are real or not.

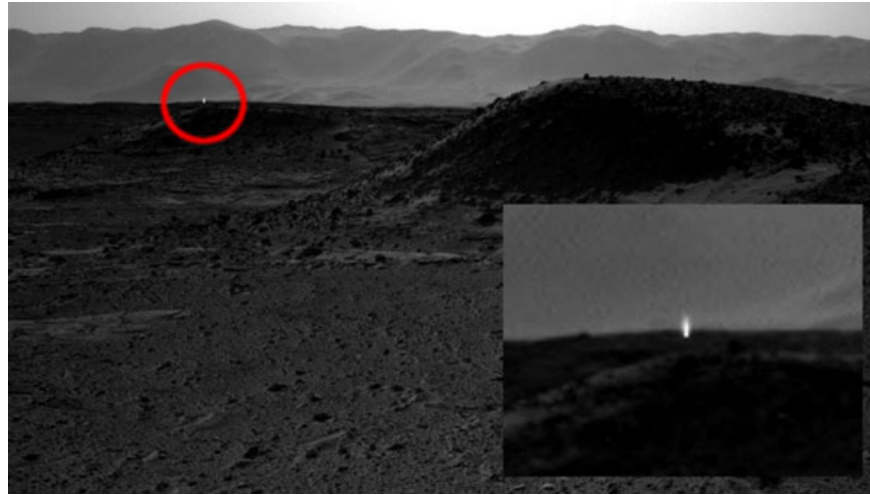

Face on Mars

The Mars-like image of the Mars in the Cydonia area was taken by NASA's Viking 1 probe in 1976.

It is essentially a hill up to nearly 3.2 km in length with many protrusions.

A light in the distance

A strange light in the distance appeared in a photo of the Gale Crater area taken by the Curiosity self-driving vehicle in 2016. There is an opinion that this is evidence of an alien civilization living below the surface of Mars.

However, the fact that the light is likely a visual illusion created by a cosmic ray is widely accepted.

The spoon is discarded

The strange object is shaped like a spoon (spoon) on Mars. This is not the first "spoon" discovered on the Red Planet.

Blueberries on Mars

An area at Meridiani Planum on Mars, where the surface is covered with round gray pebbles that look like unusual blueberries, discovered by NASA's Opportunity self-driving car in 2004.

These "exotic circular objects", vary in size, diameter from 100 micrometers to 602 mm.

So far, scientists have not come up with a consistent idea about what is known as blueberries.

Femur

NASA's Curiosity probe robot has taken a picture on Mars in which a strange object shaped like a fossilized thigh bone appears. However, most likely this is just a strange shape stone.

A plastic bag

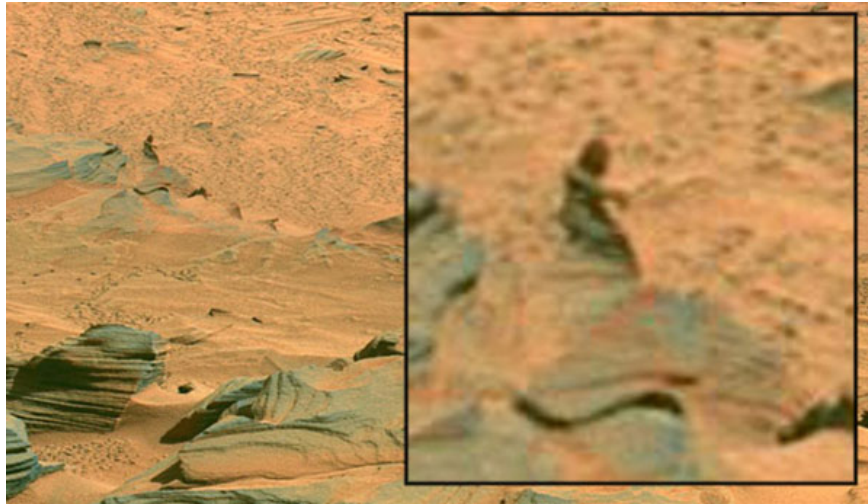

The Autonomous Vehicle Curiosity has found a clear piece of plastic on the surface of the Red Planet. The scientists concluded that this piece of plastic was the plastic wrapped from a probe cable cable, likely to have loosened upon landing.

Statue of an ancient god

In an image taken in 2010 in the Concepción Crater area, an object resembles a sculpture of the Neo-Assyrian deity of the ancient Mesopotamian.

Woman on Mars

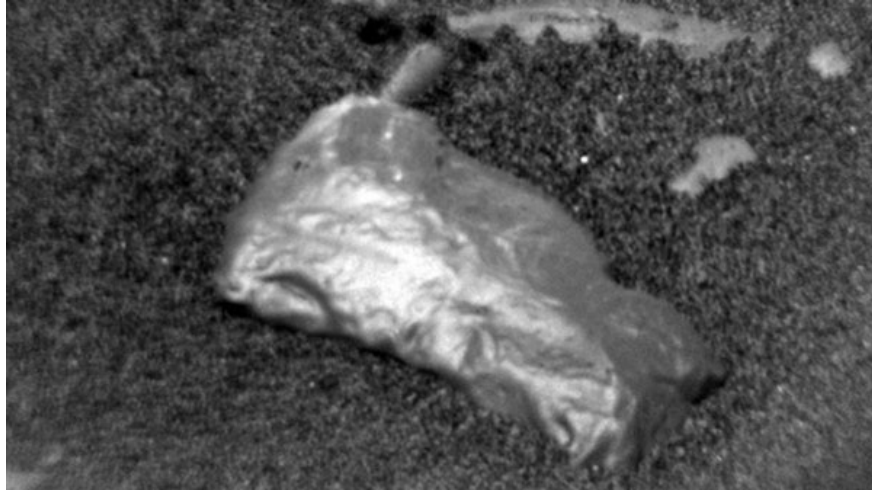

On September 5, 2007, NASA's Spirit self-propelled vehicle obtained a panoramic view in Gusev crater. In the photo there is the ghostly appearance of a female character wearing a skirt. However, from another perspective, the woman is just a stone of random shape and position.

A Martian squirrel is disguising

In the photo of a black rock cluster called Rocknest on Mars on September 28, 2012 of Curiosity self-propelled vehicle appeared something shaped like a squirrel. However, many people think that it is simply a small rock.

Gold on Mars

In November 2018, the Curiosity self-driving car accidentally discovered a shiny rock that looked like a gold bar. In fact, this object is likely a meteorite of iron-nickel.

You finished reading the article "The strangest objects ever taken on Mars surprised many" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.