Someone once said:

" The right time to meet a suitable person is happiness.

The right time to meet an inappropriate person is wrong.

The inappropriate time to meet an inappropriate person is illusory.

The inappropriate time to meet a suitable person is regret . "

So the truth when destined for us to meet the right person but what is the wrong time?

Timing is something that none of us seem to be able to find the right people in relationships. What if you met someone in your dream just a month before they left for any other distant heaven? Or is it when creating and arranging what we think is the " charm " when people have peace? The relationship ended because one side was not ready for a strong relationship, and the other side was regret when we were late. Time seemed harmless but sometimes made me struggling, tired with melancholy.

We can still laugh and laugh with our friends and say loudly: " Everything will be fine " or " If only I was seven or eight years later? At that time there would be no more problems. ". Time seems to be the third unmoving person in all of our relationships. However, we never stop to consider why we leave time to play such a powerful role in our lives. And finally, it is impossible to erase somewhere in our obsession with time.

But is time wrong?

Time is a " damn " thing. But it's just " damn " if we make it that way. This is a simple fact that all of us need to face it: " In fact, the wrong time is just that you met the wrong person. "

Obviously, each person will have their own different answers. But how to love one person at the wrong time is that I fell in love with the wrong person . Because the right people meet each other at any time. When you meet the right person, you will be ready to throw away all your original intentions to match your shoulder on the road full of thorns ahead. And there is no reason for you to consider whether you really love him or not. For you, the appearance of the person is an invaluable gift and the happiness of the two becomes a top priority in life.

When meeting the right people, time will pass quickly. You don't have to worry about how to put them on your complicated schedule, because they become part of that plan. They become its " backbone ". The happiness of both will become top priorities and therefore, as long as the person is trying to contribute to this relationship, you can proceed to the rest.

Meet the right people, you will be encouraged to believe in the power of love . He gives you an unprecedented sweet feeling, encouraging you to try to promote your own forte, ability and passion. He will accompany you through hardships despite time consuming efforts. When next to him, time is also on your side.

The truth is when we lose someone and blame the tantalizing arrangement of creation, we ourselves are the ones who don't know how to cherish that opportunity . Because complete miracles never happen without the effort and effort. However, it is possible that one day he will do all the problems well but not at the right time. Because when someone is the right person we need to find, we will know how to make more time in our lives. And that is the time when everything is always right.
