The project for every child with a laptop has just said that they will also be launching a commercial version of a $ 100 laptop. Currently the version for education has been put into mass production.

The idea of a $ 100 laptop commercial version has been talked about for a long time, but so far each laptop project of a laptop seems to want to be rejected.

The project representative said it expected the 100USD commercial laptop version to be released during the year-end sales season - around October - at a reference price of about $ 350 - double the cost needed to produce. Product out.

Initially there will be about 3 million versions of 100USD laptops launched on the market. The source of profits will be transferred back to investment in the production version for education.
