

Things you didn't know about 26 types of Pokeball - Part 2

To be able to catch Pokemon, players need to use Pokeball. The higher the ball, the higher the success rate of Pokemon

Like the Pokemon hierarchy rank, Pokeball also has different levels and generations. The ball of the larger generation, the higher the level, is more likely to catch Pokemon. In part 1 article Things you do not know about Pokeball, we brought to general information Pokeball divided into 5 generations, accompanied by details about the first 2 generations of Pokeball. In Pokemon GO games, most of the first generation Pokeball appear.

In this article, we will introduce you to the next 3 generations of Pokeball.

3. 3rd generation Pokeball:

1. Premier Ball:

This type of ball will only appear at events in the Pokemon world. Therefore it is very difficult for us to find and only gain 1 bonus if the player buys 10 Poke Ball in the shop. Premier Ball's capture rate is on par with Poke Ball.

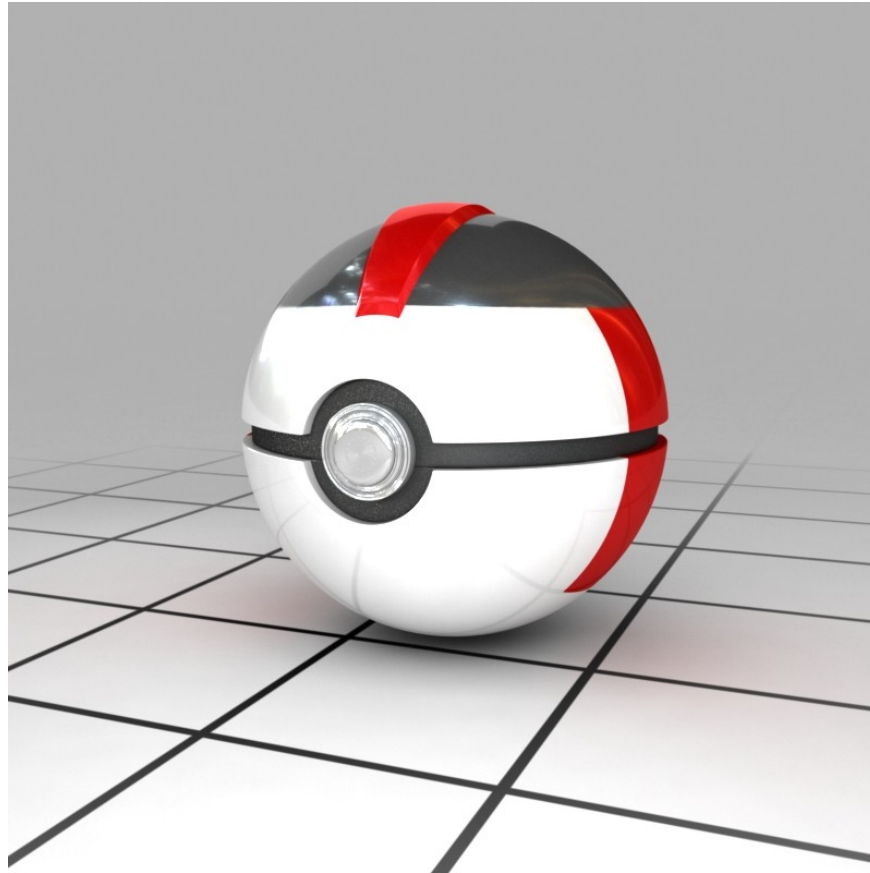

2. Repeat Ball:

This type of ball will only promote strength with Pokemon that are already in Pokedex. The success rate will be multiplied by 3, while the other is equivalent to Poke ball.

3. Timer Ball:

The success rate of Timer Ball caught Pokemon is multiplied by 4.

4. Nest Ball:

This type of ball will work with Pokemon that have a lower level than the first Pokemon in your team.

5. Net Ball:

This type of ball will handle the Pokemon of the Water system and the Insect system. Each has a success rate of 3, 3 times the regular Poké Ball.

6. Dive Ball:

Dive Ball is used to catch Pokemon near lakes, beaches, swimming pools, etc. This type of ball effect is 3.5 times compared to Poké Ball.

7. Luxury Ball:

In addition to the successful catch rate equal to Poke Ball, Luxury Ball has an additional use to increase the friendly index of captured Pokemon. This is also a rather sophisticated ball type in terms of design so it is called Luxury.

4. Generation 4 Pokeball:

1. Heal Ball:

Although the ability to capture this type of ball is comparable to Poké Ball, it has the ability to restore blood, attack stats for Pokemon captured.

2. Quick Ball:

Quick Ball's use will be maximized when players throw this type of ball right in the first turn in a battle with a wild pokemon. If used correctly, the catch rate of this type of ball is very high, 5 times higher than Poke Ball.

3. Dusk Ball:

Multiply 3.5 times the successful capture rate when we use to catch Pokemon in caves and in the evening.

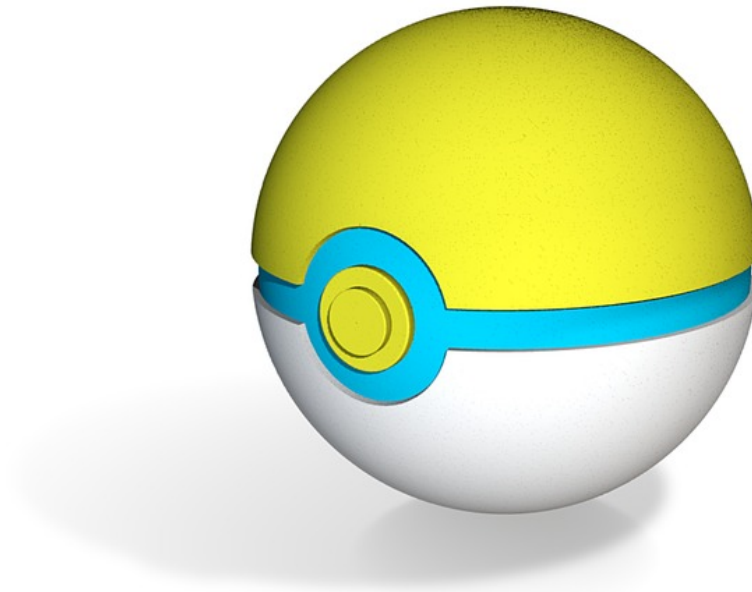

4. Cherish Ball:

This is the most strange type of ball because it contains in it that event pokemon, usually rare pokemon, is given to gamers in some special events. Normally, Cherish Ball has the same effect as Poke Ball.

5. Park Ball:

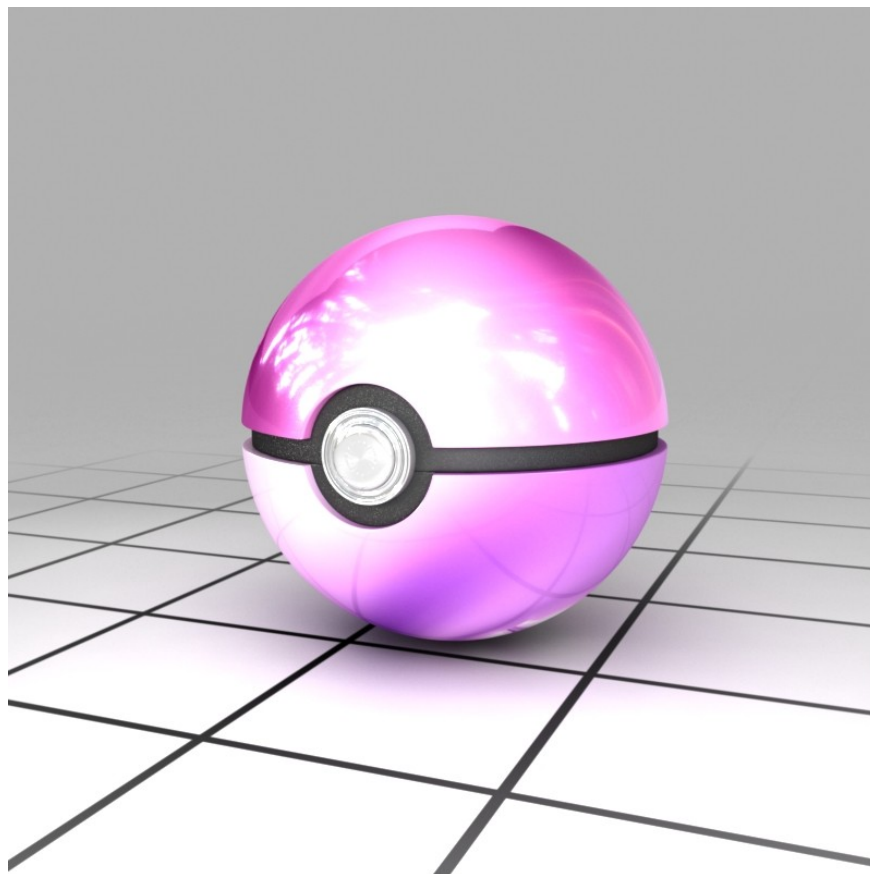

Catch the Pokemon sent via Pal Park with a catch rate of 255x. This is also a special type of ball that cannot be purchased or sold.

5. 5th generation Pokeball:

Dream Ball:

This is the most magical ball in the Pokemon world. It allows players to catch any Pokémon that appear in the Entree forest. This is a special area that players will meet while in the Dream World. How to catch pokemon in the forest also in very strange ways.

Wish you all play fun!

You finished reading the article "Things you didn't know about 26 types of Pokeball - Part 2" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.