

This keyword will help you find and delete online accounts that are no longer in use

If you want to find and delete online accounts that are no longer used as social networks, services, online payment utilities, etc., the small trick shared by Mihir Patkar, the Lifehacker member page below will help friend.

If you want to find and delete online accounts that are no longer used as social networks, services, online payment utilities, etc., the small trick shared by Mihir Patkar, the Lifehacker member page below will help friend.

The implementation is quite simple. First, open the personal e-mail address you normally use to register your online account -> enter the search box for the word " Confirm your email " -> most account confirmation messages will be filtered and display.

With this tip, you can tell if you have (or ever) registered an online account at any address, service or social network. If there is no need to use it, you can access it again and request a cancellation.

See more:

1. Instructions on how to delete a Skype account permanently
2. How to permanently delete Facebook account on computer 2018
3. How to delete iCloud account on iPhone

You finished reading the article "This keyword will help you find and delete online accounts that are no longer in use" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.