

Tim Cook: The iPhone SE 2020 is faster than any other Android smartphone

Apple's CEO says the new iPhone is faster than the best and fastest Android smartphone on the market. With this statement, Cook can be very confident in his new phone.

Recently, Apple released its financial statements for the first quarter of 2020. Apple's CEO met with investors after reporting $ 58.3 billion in revenue last quarter. On this occasion, Tim Cook made very bold statements about iPhone SE 2020.

iPhone SE 2020

Specifically, Tim Cook identified the iPhone SE 2020 as being targeted at low-income users. He said it was a move by the company to push users to increase their use of the iOS platform.

But perhaps Tim Cook's boldest statement is about the performance of the iPhone SE 2020. Cook says the new iPhone is faster than the best and fastest Android smartphone on the market. With this statement, Cook can be very confident in his new phone.

However, Tim Cook skillfully "steered" into another issue when asked whether the competitive price of the new iPhone SE will affect the company's overall pricing policy. According to Cook, Apple continues to strive to always sell the best products at affordable prices. Cook said it is not just the iPhone SE that is a general policy for all Apple products.

You finished reading the article "Tim Cook: The iPhone SE 2020 is faster than any other Android smartphone" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.

---