

Tips for playing Five Nights at Freddy's: Security Breach

Five Nights at Freddy's: Security Breach has continued the success of its predecessor. Most of the mechanics and gameplay of the previous version remained the same, with one of the game's biggest changes being the location of in-game events.

Players will no longer be trapped in a small room, but will have to explore a huge building. The main character, Gregory is trying to uncover the mysteries of Mega Pizzaplex.

Some things will be familiar, others will be completely new. Therefore, even gamers who have mastered the previous FNAF part must prepare for the unexpected. In this article, learn tips for surviving Five Nights at Freddy's: Security Breach.

Tips for playing Five Nights at Freddy's: Security Breach

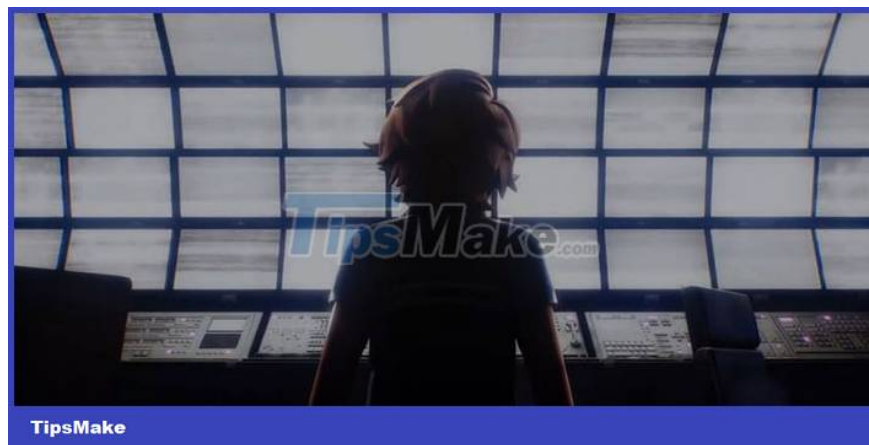

Regularly use Faz Watch

At the start of the game, everyone will be given a Faz Watch. Use it to gain access to maps, quests and secret messages. It's an important part of FNAF: Security Breach and players should rely on it throughout the gameplay.

Since Security Breach has a lot of open world experiences, players will have to keep an eye on their trusty watch to get some quests. Moreover, Mega Pizzaplex is a large place, it is very important for players to take notes on the map to know where they are and where they should go.

Pay attention to the instructions

The somewhat annoying part of this game is that it only tells all the information once. So, if players aren't paying attention, they might not know what to do next. While Faz Watch will mention the title of each mission, specific missions will only be mentioned by Freddy once.

For example, if a player has to go to location X, get item X, and deliver said item to location X, only the last location will be mentioned by Faz Watch. The rest requires gamers to memorize. Although this is not always the case in the game, it can still occur, so the player must be extremely attentive when being instructed about anything.

Take advantage of hiding

Mega Pizzaplex is a large location so there are many hiding places spread throughout the map. Although running across a room or going on a high-stakes chase, careful hiding is still advisable. Players should take advantage of hiding places and wait for the right moment to start sprinting again.

Some locations are hidden in the environment, like boxes, closets, trolleys, and other times Gregory can hide in Freddy to stay out of trouble. Players should use these opportunities to get past the STAFF and hide from the scary puppets.

Always be careful with STAFF

Hideouts are often used to remain undetected by the program's STAFF army. One of the most annoying parts of the game is the jump scares of these robots. They also interrupt the player's journey through the Pizzaplex, alerting the puppet to Gregory's location.

Some players caught at the moment tend to venture across an area, thinking they are stealthy and skillful enough to get past each of these robots, but the chances are very high that they will be caught, making the task difficult. much more accomplished.

You finished reading the article "Tips for playing Five Nights at Freddy's: Security Breach" edited by the TipsMake team. We hope this article has provided you with many useful tech tips and tricks. You can search for similar articles on tips and guides. Thank you for reading and for following us regularly.